ose Pink, Record Broken.
'eaceful Fishing.
\nother Canal Needed.
Einstein, the Deep.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

FOR 13 hours and 16 minutes, Elinor Smith, 17-year-old gir ier, stayed up in the freezing inds above Long Island in an en airplane. When she came wn her nose was bright pink, r legs were stiff. Her hands re almost frozen, but she had oken the women's endurance cord by one hour.

FLYING interests women. It is one of the things that they n do better than men.

The MOST important thing men n't do at all, namely, producing and taking care of children, d that is what should interest men especially.

It is better to create an Abraham Lincoln than to be Abraham Lincoln.

MR. HOOVER is fishing, calm and peaceful, having written inaugural address and selected his cabinet. The country n't know who is in the cabinet til March 4.

THOUSAND or more candidates may be sure that if y haven't heard from Mr. Hoover yet, they will not hear from him. The fact that Secretary Mellon REMAINS in the cabinet will please everybody, something that happens rarely.

THE Panama Canal set a new high record for business in January, 593 ships passing in 30 days.

The country needs another canal, and a Nicaragua canal should be built at sea level to ake care of growing ocean-to-ocean traffic.

The Nicaragua canal would provide this country with a canal om the Atlantic to the Pacific thout the locks, so easily de-ed.

' navy which played at war e other day, attacking and ding the Panama Canal, ad- that the attackers, theoreti- , "destroyed the canal." They if the Navy had more fast isers the defense would have n successful.

N the other hand, if an enemy came with a few high- ered bombing machines with- any cruisers or any ships on water, the canal could be de- oyed, and floating ships would n nothing.

HIS country has bought from Nicaragua the right to build canal, and the canal should be uilt, without loss of time. That ill be one of Herbert Hoover's obs.

PROF. EINSTEIN'S new theories puzzle able mathematicians, as they well may.

He tells you, if his deep German is correctely interpreted, that gravitation and electricity are the same force.

The fourth dimension is time, and geometry and electricity are n some way related.

IT must be all true, since a great scientist says so, at least until a greater scientist comes along and says it is nonsense.

But how geometry, expressing finite man's ideas of form and measurement, can possibly be connected with a cosmic force like electricity is not easily understood by little people.

AS for the fourth dimension being "time," that is even more puzzling. "Time is only a succession of events," it is men's word to express the fact that they are born, and after a while die. If that man-made word "time" is the fourth dimension, what is the fifth?

SPEECHES in Congress are unfortunately not read by ore than one-tenth of the citizens.

Everyone should read Mr. Reed f Missouri's speech demanding ast cruisers and preparation.

SENATOR REED says truly, that other countries, notoriously, have prepared in rather complete fashion plans for attacking the United States, in case they should decide to do so.

He reminds the Senate that not a single American-made fighting airplane crossed a German trench, although at the last minute and in a panic the country spent nearly a billion dollars making flying machines that never flew, and another billion making floating ships that we now cannot even give away.

ON Monday Col. Lindbergh will pilot the first air mail plane from Miami to Panama, going to the canal as casually as you would travel by rail from Chicago to Milwaukee, and JUST AS SAFELY.

New York will have flying service to and from Coney Island every 15 minutes, fare $4.

Air traffic will grow. Those that establish paying lines will prosper.

DR. BARNES, who said, "Men need a new concept of God," says now that he is satisfied with e Hebrew concept of God."

Perhaps the professor is satis- because Jehovah is described s minutely than some other ncepts.

THE ancient Hebrews, according to cold science, wandering over the plains with their flocks and herds, far from forests in a monotonous country, seeing only the sky above them, nothing much around them, gave to the world a conception of only one God. One seemed to be enough, for such a landscape.

The Greeks, on the other hand, with their mountains, caves, waterfalls, caverns and groves, invented a different kind of God for all the different places.

SOME scientists say that the Hebrew conception of God is older than any recorded Jewish writing, that our Old Testament was taken largely from the Babylonians. But learned rabbis deny that.

Fortunately, under our Constitution, each man is entitled to his own conception of God, and has a right to think what he pleases, as long as he doesn't bother or nterfere with anybody else.

EUGENE CECIL

FOG LURES AIR MAIL PILOT TO DEATH

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A career that embodied piloting in the World War, through air circus stunting to air mail flying, ended on Tar Mountain early today with the death of Eugene Cecil, 35, Cleveland-Pittsburgh mail plane pilot.

Cecil, it is thought, became lost in the fog over Carnegie, Pa., and circling it mistook the Monongahela River for the Ohio River, causing him to fly southward towards West Virginia instead northward to his home port, Bettis Field, McKeesport, a few miles from Carnegie.

Cecil, who piloted a United States Army plane on the western front, left the Gates Air Circus December 15 and was employed by Clifford Ball, contractor for the Cleveland-Pittsburgh route.

Cecil had made a trip from Pittsburgh to Cleveland yesterday afternoon in a snowstorm and was making his return trip when the misfortune overtook him.

Cecil was a native of Villa Grove, Ill., but had resided at 1132 Craig street, McKeesport, since entering the mail service. He leaves his wife.

A diamond stickpin was stolen, it was reported to police today, from the automobile of R. M. H. Jantzen, a jeweler, of the Ambassador apartments, 4733 Center avenue, while the machine was parked in Wood street, near Oliver avenue. The pin was in a small bag along with clothing belonging to Jantzen, he said. The owner had left his machine to attend a banquet in honor of Councilman Harry A. Little, retiring monarch of Islam Grotto, in McCreery's dining room. The pin was valued at more than $1,500.

Club officials said the total loss would be several hundred thousand dollars. The animals refused to leave the burning building.

BLUE LAW OPINIONS DIVIDED

How public opinion is divided on the proposal that the Sabbath observance laws of 1794 be modified is exemplified by the attitude of 12 representative Pittsburghers interviewed today on the subject. Six of those who contributed to the symposium said they favored repeal or amendment of the "blue laws" and a more liberal policy in reference to Sunday recreation. Six others said they did not want a change.

BILL DRAFTED

The draft of the bill approved by a group presided over by A. L. Humphrey, president of the Westinghouse Airbrake Company, in the Chamber of Commerce meeting yesterday, provides that hereafter it shall not be unlawful to give or attend any games, pastimes or amusements on Sunday provided no charge for admission is made. Exception to the admission fee is made in case the entertainment shall be for charitable or educational purposes, and it is provided that there shall be no interruption of religious worship on Sunday.

LOCAL OPTION URGED

Another section of the bill provides that first, second and third-class cities, boroughs and first-class townships shall regulate by ordinance pastimes and amusements on Sunday.

It was decided to appoint an executive committee to choose the officers and select a name for the organization backing the Sunday law modification bill. A statewide campaign in behalf of the bill is planned.

GROCER KILLED IN QUARREL OVER BILL

A quarrel over a joint electric light contract, police said, ended this morning when Henry Smith, 38, Mifflin township grocer, was shot and killed as he was chopping down wires leading to the home of a neighbor.

Fritz Siebenschuch, 40, a widower, who lives alone in a cottage near Smith's home, in Curry Hollow, was arrested, charged with the slaying.

The two had quarreled, according to Deputy Coroner W. M. Jackson, over division of the cost of electric current.

Smith, with a hatchet, began cutting the wires leading from the meter in his home to Siebenschuch's home, police alleged, when the latter opened a door and fired at Smith with a shotgun. The grocer fell dead, hatchet in hand.

Siebenschuch was arrested in his home by Patrolman James A. Crawford, of the Mifflin Township police, and later was turned over to county detectives.

Smith's wife and four children were indoors when the shooting occurred.

The wife of the slain man, county detectives said, told them her husband was jealous of Siebenschuch, without cause, and that Smith threatened last week to shoot his entire family. The detectives said they found a shotgun in the Smith home.

FIND BOY 'SUICIDE' ELOPING

Billy Thomas, 18, West Homestead, and Mary Collender, 16, of Homestead, who disappeared from their homes two weeks ago, were found today in New York, their attempts to get married dismal failures.

When Billy disappeared from his home at 314 Cherry street a week ago he left a note indicating he intended to shoot himself. Billy also took his father's revolver. The same day his clothes were found on the Brown's Bridge over the Monongahela River.

In New York today Billy was arrested and charged with carrying concealed weapons.

"We tried to get married all over New Jersey, but couldn't find a preacher who'd marry us," Billy is said to have told the authorities.

Billy had found a room for the girl, whose Homestead address is 148 Seventh avenue, and had taken up residence himself at a hotel.

FAREWELL PERMITTED TO DOOMED PAIR; BOTH DENY GUILT

FRANKLIN, La., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef was hanged in the parish jail today for participation in the murder of her husband, James L. Lebouef.

She went to the gallows just ahead of Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, who was convicted jointly with her.

Both executions were effected quickly and smoothly, the necks of both being broken on the first rebound of the rope.

Both died forgiving all, but protesting their innocence to the last.

WOMAN IN PANIC

The woman walked on the trap at 12:03 and was hanged at 12:16.

"O, mother, my God," moaned Ada. "Isn't this a terrible thing."

"Oh, don't let me suffer. Oh, God, who can do that."

"This is murder itself. I hope Jesus can love my soul. The rope is so tight around my neck."

She struggled before the drop.

She then began praying ... Father J. J. Rosseau, Cat[holic] priest. She then began talkin[g in] the voice of a young girl.

"Out there! Out there," [she] cried as a surprised child as [the] sheriff begged her to come on ... The hangman sat on a bench beside the trap waiting.

DIES INSTANTLY

A small rope fastened her hands and feet and she held the black beads with the cross in her locked hands. She died instantly after the trap was opened.

The woman led the way to the gallows accompanied by Father J. J. Rosseau, Franklin priest. The man followed with his spiritual ad-

PRINCE JILTED, BROTHER WINS PRINCESS

REGENSBURG, Bavaria, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Princess Illa, of the Bohemian branch of the Thurn and Taxis family, who left Prince Raphael Ranier, of the Bavarian branch of the same family, waiting at the altar yesterday, changed her mind about the wedding because she had fallen in love with her fiance's youngest brother, Prince Philippe Ernst.

Princess Illa, just past 20, sprang the new surprise today by confessing that her heart belonged to Prince Philippe Ernst, who will be 21 next May.

WEDDING EXPECTED

It is now generally expected that the two will be married later.

The families of the princess all declare that they credit her with the sincerest motives springing from a deep religious conviction that it would be wrong for her to marry Prince Raphael when she really loved Prince Philippe.

MET BOTH SAME TIME

It was learned today that Princess Illa met Philippe about the same time that she met Raphael, who is 23.

She was not sure of her feelings, however, until she saw him daily while staying at his paternal home for the week preceding the date set for her marriage to Raphael.

KNOXVILLE WOMAN SEEKS TO ADOPT 'MYSTERY BABY'

Three and a half years ago Mrs. Pauline Farrell, of 106 Romeyn street, Knoxville, took into her arms at Penn avenue and Stanwix street a six-day-old child.

Mrs. Farrell had wanted to adopt a baby for eight years and when she saw an advertisement offering a child for adoption she answered it.

A well-dressed middle-aged woman, who said she was Elizabeth Brown, turned the child over to Mrs. Farrell and promised to inquire about the baby regularly. But Elizabeth Brown hasn't inquired.

Martha Louise, the baby, was sick when she entered the comfortable Farrell home. Today she is a healthy, happy baby of three years.

The Farrells have asked the courts if they may adopt Martha Louise and they are anxiously awaiting the decision. Judge Jacob J. Miller, of Orphans Court, instructed them to have the Bureau of Missing Persons make a second search for Martha Louise's parents so the adoption might bear their sanction. The first search failed.

GIRL WEDS RICH MAN WHO HAD HER CHASED BY PLANE

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Ruth B. McConnell, 26, today was the wife of Kenneth B. Coulter, 43, of Clifton Springs, N. Y., the man from whom she was reported to have fled in a cross-country chase by train and airplane that attracted national attention.

Mrs. Coulter became the wife of a millionaire, for her husband, although 43, and a cripple for 20 years, owns large dairy properties in New York and is worth more than $5,000,000.

Announcement was made by the family last night that the couple had been married at the home of the bride's father, Maj. Henry E. McConnell, in Indianapolis.

Although members of the McConnell family announced that the couple would leave last night for New York, the bride and bridegroom today were still at the McConnell home.

Maintaining secrecy, the McConnells refused to tell newspapermen when the newlyweds would depart for their honeymoon.

Mrs. Coulter gained the spotlight in December when she fled from Rochester, N. Y., to Los Angeles, Cal., pursued by Dr. D. O. Meeker, of Rochester, who rode in airplanes and trains to try to overtake the young woman. He was forced down in Nevada, but later visited the young woman in California. She was reported to have been fleeing from the man she married yesterday.

PORTER RAPS DEFEAT OF DOPE PLAN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The action of the opium committee of the League of Nations at Geneva in rejecting the so-called plan for control of the drug evil has been sharply criticised by Representative Stephen G. Porter, Pennsylvania.

Representative Porter, who headed the American delegation to the Geneva opium conference in 1924, said he was making an investigation of opium manufacturing by certain foreign countries and added one or more of these governments will hear from Congress in no uncertain terms when the inquiry is finished."

The plan rejected by the committee was attacked by Sir John Campbell, a Scotsman, who represents India. Sir John declared that the plan really was composed by a former Spanish member of the secretariat of the league and that it was a piece of skillfully organized propaganda. Under its provisions, each country would state its narcotic needs in advance and announce publicly where the drugs were to be manufactured and purchased.

Representative Porter declared the plan defeated was an elaboration of that proposed by the United States delegation four years ago.

The opium committee at Geneva decided by a vote of 7 to 4 that the "American plan" was impossible of application. China, Italy, France and Germany made up the minority.

WOMAN AND DOCTOR HANG FOR HUSBAND'S KILLING

The woman went moaning to the gallows. But Dreher shook hands with the sheriff and walked strongly up the 10 winding stairs.

As he reached the fatal trap he said: "Poor Miss Ada, she has gone."

Then looking at Meigs O. Frost, a New Orleans newspaperman, he said:

"Mr. Frost, you know we didn't do it."

As the hope was adjusted he said: "Oh, God, have mercy on my soul. Just don't let me choke to death." He went through the trap, and died instantly.

The Rev. Mr. McCormack, the Methodist minister said Dr. Dreher went to his death grieving that his grown son, "Ted," was unable to come from the Texas oil fields for a farewell.

He prayed all morning, he said, and was praying when he died. He prayed for Mrs. Lebouef, the sheriff and particularly his family.

"I told him he was now in the presence of God and he should not die without the truth on his lips," the minister said, "and he insisted that both he and Mrs. Lebouef were innocent."

SAY FAREWELL

Just before their hour of doom, Mrs. Leboeuf and Dr. Dreher bade each other a final farewell.

The haggard physician pleaded with Sheriff Charles Pecot to permit him to see the woman with whom he was to die for the murder of her husband, and just before noon he was taken to her cell.

They shook hands and sobbed.

"Goodby, Tom," said the widow, tears falling from her eyes.

"Goodby, I hope we will meet in the other world," Dreher said. He grasped her hand and turned away.

The final preparations were then started for their march to the gallows.

CLEMENCY DENIED

The doomed love conspirators had held only one faint hope of escaping the scaffold. Gov. Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, had the legal right, up until the very last minute before noon today, to grant them a further lease on life. He said in no uncertain terms late yesterday that he would not intervene.

The last maneuver of defense counsel in behalf of the fear-shattered woman and the country physician who brought her four children into the world, failed late yesterday at New Orleans. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals there refused to reverse Federal Judge Wayne G. Borah's action in declining to halt the hangings.

BOTH HYSTERICAL

When the Ruth Snyder and the Judd Gray of this long-drawn-out court drama were notified by the jailer that the New Orleans court had refused to stay their execution, they became hysterical, their nerves too shattered to talk coherently.

Prison attaches reported that after first fainting, Mrs. Leboeuf later was able to talk. She declared, they said, that the long suspense of waiting was "cruelly unjust," and asked, "why didn't they hang us in the first place, instead of killing us with suspense and then hanging us anyway."

She had, for months, been under the care of a relay of attendants, suffering from an abdominal tumor, while the middle-aged physician, blind in one eye from a cerebral infection, lay prostrated upon his cot, moaning like a child.

VISITED BY CHILDREN

After dawn today, no one, not even members of their family, were permitted to see them. Yesterday three of Mrs. Lebouef's children—Herman and Ernest, boys in their teens, and Liberty, a 10-year-old girl, visited their mother in the jail, and left immediately afterward for their home. The eldest son, Joseph, did not see his mother. Dr. Dreher's three children, Polly, 20; Dorothy, 17; and Ted 19, also have visited him for the final time.

The crime for which Mrs. Lebouef and Dr. Dreher died occurred 18 months ago when the woman's husband was murdered near Morgan City, and his body weighted with iron and thrown into a lake. Jim Beadle, a trapper, pleaded guilty to the actual commission of the crime and is now serving a life sentence.

THRILL MURDER JURY OUT

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 1.—The jury holding in its hands the fate of Richard Gallogly, wealthy college student, and accused murderer of Willard Smith, drug clerk, resumed its deliberations at 9:30 o'clock this morning. No word had come from them up to noon.

The case went into the hands of the jury at 6:25 last night. It deliberated three hours before retiring.

Smith, who was actually shot by George Harsh, self-styled "thrill slayer," was killed during a drug store robbery in which Gallogly is accused of having participated. Harsh has been sentenced to die in the electric chair March 15.

M'GOVERN RAPS WOODSIDE'S 'WHITEWASH'

County Commissioner C. C. McGovern today assailed Controller Robert G. Woodside for removing from the county records surcharges of $117,853.56 and $10,757 against the County Commissioners.

When he was controller, McGovern entered the surcharges against Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong, E. V. Babcock and James Houlahen for private work which McGovern charged county employes had performed for politicians and their friends.

"Woodside had no right to nullify any act of mine as controller," McGovern's statement read. "Such action was illegal, unwarranted and sets Woodside up as a final tribunal."

SAME WORDS—DIFFERENT

In removing the surcharges Woodside used much the same language as McGovern in a different sense. The charges, he said, were unwarranted and illegal.

Woodside removed the surcharges in his annual report announced yesterday. In that report he explained that Walter J. Christy, delinquent tax collector, had posted a check for $6,956.47 with the controller to cover a confusion of accounts.

FOSTER NAMED, TOO

Christy is the second county official named by Controller Woodside in fund mixups in the past two weeks. The other was former County Treasurer Samuel D. Foster, now recorder of deeds.

The exact amount due the county from Christy has not been determined, according to Controller Woodside, but the sum will not exceed the amount of the check given by Christy.

BOOTLEG KINGS JAILED

Two alleged "bootlegger kings" of Johnstown and three aids were given jail sentences in Federal Court today when they pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition act.

Special Investigator Joseph E. Frayne testified that Anthony Tereisi and Sam Maiorena, who were fined $1,000 and sent to Cambria County Jail for six months, were bosses of a rum ring and had paid a Johnstown executive for police protection.

Frayne said they had made affidavit to Mayor Joseph E. Cauffiel, of Johnstown, that he, Frayne, had promised to obtain light sentences for them. Frayne denied the statement.

Vincenzo Zastalagno and Clarence Mansfield were sentenced to four months and each fined $500, and Frank Batta was sentenced to three months and fined $500 by Judge Nelson McVicar.

JAWORSKI PAL SEEKS PAROLE

Parole of Joseph Wieckowski, serving a term of five to 10 years in the workhouse as a member of the Jaworski "Flathead Gang," was asked in Criminal Court today.

The plea was presented to Judge Ambrose B. Reid by Attorney Benjamin Lencher on behalf of Mrs. Weickowski. She is destitute and her six children, the oldest aged 13, are in want, one child having died since imprisonment of the father, the petition alleged, and the farm in Washington County near Coal Center, near the Allegheny County line, which was a rendezvous for the robber gang after the Coverdale robbery and on which more than $40,000 was unearthed, is in ruins because there is no one to run it.

Town Which Fined Lindy to Repay With Butter

CULBERTSON, Neb., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—In remembrance of the time when he was forced to attend a justice of the peace court and pay an irate farmer $25 for damages which his plane did to an alfalfa field near here, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will receive the first pound of butter produced by a new co-operative creamery here.

Lindbergh, at the time of his court appearance, was a "gypsy" of the air, taking up passengers and doing stunt flying at a county fair in September, 1922. His landing in the alfalfa field was forced.

The butter will be sent to the "Lone Eagle" by air mail. It was purchased from the creamery by the Culbertson Chamber of Commerce for $125.

2 SHOT, SUICIDE PACT HINTED; 1 MAY DIE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Frederick H. Gay, assistant to the president of I. P. Morris-de la Verne, Inc., and his wife, Sarah, were found shot today in their apartments in Mayfair House, Germantown.

Gay, who has a bullet wound in the right temple, is not expected to live. Mrs. Gay was shot in the left temple, but there is hope for her recovery. They are in the Germantown Hospital. Each is 54 years old.

The police reported the shooting had the aspect of a suicide pact. The pistol was found in an incinerator in the basement of the place. It was thrown down a chute leading from the apartment.

The shooting was discovered when Gay called a houseman on the telephone and said in a feeble voice, "Get me a doctor; I've been shot." The houseman and the apartment physician were admitted by Mrs. Gay. Gay was lying on one of the twin beds. He appeared unconscious.

Answering questions, Mrs. Gay said she did not know how the shooting occurred. "I heard a crash of glass," she said.

According to the physician, Gay aroused himself slightly and said: "Don't believe her doctor. She's all wrong."

BOND FORGERY HEARINGS WAIVED

Charles E. Knapp, Mrs. Irma Knapp, Bennie Diamond and Leo Gallagher, named in an alleged government bond forgery, today waived a preliminary hearing before the United States commissioner.

With the exception of Knapp all renewed their bail for appearance in the federal district of New York on February 11.

In the meantime, the identity of "John Doe," named in the indictment, still remains a mystery.

The two Knapps were represented by Attorneys Robert Worley and H. Leo Rattner, and Gallagher by Attorney L. P. McGrath. Diamond was not present at the time, but he and his attorney, Louis Little, sent word to Assistant United States Attorney Raymond D. Evans that Diamond waived a hearing and would renew his bond.

Assistant United States Attorney Thomas J. Todarelli, of New York, intimated strongly today that more indictments would be returned as a result of an investigation of the bond forgery ring. Todarelli returns to New York tonight.

A new indictment in the government's case was received from New York today. It is said to be practically the same as the old one with the exception of one clause which names John Doe.

MANNING, RESCUE HERO, THREATENED WITH DEATH

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Special patrolmen were assigned today to guard the home of Mrs. Anna Manning, mother of Acting Capt. Harry Manning, hero of the Florida rescue, following the receipt of death threats against her son.

An anonymous letter warned Mrs. Manning that "your son will be dead by Sunday" unless $7,000 is placed in a felt bag and left "in a hole to the right of the stairway" at a Bronx address.

An investigation at the address given in the letter revealed no trace of the blackmailers. The possibility of the existence of a blackmail ring which preys upon persons in the public eye was seen by the police in the fact that the address also was specified in a threatening letter received a month ago by the father of a girl named Keslau after she was reported kidnaped.

Acting Captain Manning is now in midocean in command of the liner America. The rescue ship sailed for Bremen on Wednesday noon.

MELLON GETS BILLARD REQUEST

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—The first step toward reorganization of the government's agencies to make prohibition effective was taken today when Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the coast guard, submitted to Secretary Mellon recommendations for strengthening that enforcement arm to meet the smuggling situation.

Admiral Billard's report providing for a five-year program of expansion of commissioned personnel of the coast guard, and for replacement of obsolete and wornout vessels, will be studied by Under Secretary Ogden L. Mills, treasury budget officer, and then sent to Budget Director H. M. Lord.

ASKS 200 NEW OFFICERS

The present plan is to send the proposals to Congress next December. The program could not be put into effect under the proposed $24,000,000 additional dry appropriation, according to Mellon.

Billard asked for 200 additional commissioned officers. That probably would permit the increase in rank of many of the old-time coast guard officers who have been serving for years in junior grades. It was pointed out at the Treasury that the addition to the commissioned personnel would have a tendency to attract more qualified material to the coast guard and give it more the status of a career enjoyed in the Army and Navy.

The plan, it was understood, does not contemplate immediate increase in the enlisted force, which is regarded as sufficient to meet present conditions.

WANT MORE DESTROYERS

Billard recommended arrangements be made for a transfer of about ... destroyers from the Navy to the coast guard. They would be used chiefly to replace obsolete destroyers now in use. Most of the destroyers patroling the eastern coast are in bad condition.

Officials said the Navy probably would interpose no objection to furnishing destroyers from the laid-up fleet. They would be available to the Navy in case of war or other emergency.

Another recommendation was for funds to provide several new cutters. The present cutter fleet is below the required standards and several vessels are about ready for the junk pile. A number of new tugs also was regarded as necessary by Billard.

At the same time Commissioner of Customs E. W. Camp was preparing a report for Secretary Mellon relative to requirements of that service to meet the activities of border smugglers and those operating at large seaports. Camp's report has not been finished, but, it was understood, would recommend a material increase in the border patrol, particularly that operating along the Canadian border.

Dry Fund Measure Advanced to Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Twice the amended first deficiency bill, carrying with it $24,000,000 for prohibition enforcement, has gone before the House, and twice it has been shunted aside. Supporters of the fund have sought a direct vote on the amendment, but after an extended argument yesterday, the measure today was on its way to conference with the Senate.

A proposal designed to keep the bill from conference was beaten in the House yesterday, 240 to 141, and this was taken as a victory for those who believe, as Secretary Mellon believes, that the $24,000,000 would do more harm than good.

Street Car Collision Injures 20 in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Twenty persons were injured, two seriously, when two crowded trolley cars collided at Eleventh and Tasker streets last night.

Screams of women passengers and the sounds of crashing glass were heard blocks away as the cars met with great force. One of the cars was hurled from the rails and sent careening across the street. Police said it appeared a misunderstanding in signals had been responsible.

WOMEN SWITCH P. R. R. TRAINS IN TOWERS

Pittsburgh has four women whose hands, instead of rocking cradles, guide trains—whose alert minds and steady nerves safeguard the lives of thousands of travelers every day!

These women are tower operators for the Pennsylvania Railroad and three of them watch over one of the busiest sections of the vast P. R. R. system alone.

Three—Eva Banks, Anna Taubler and Helen Oliver—are to be found in "VI" tower in Brilliant cutoff, that stretch of P. R. R. track which connects the Allegheny Valley and Conemaugh divisions. More than 150 trains are under their control each day.

Mary Harkins is the fourth woman railroader. She is to be found in "UF" tower, in the yards just beyond the shadow of Pennsylvania Station. Her duty is to keep accurate tab on all trains in and out of the station.

Woman Who Lived On Alms Leaves Hidden $8,563

PENNSBURG, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Neighbors and friends who had long given potatoes and other necessities of life to Mrs. Sarah Brey, 71, were surprised when Horace H. Smith, justice of the peace, opened her small safe after her death and found $8,354 in currency and $209 in gold in an old tobacco pouch.

Old pocketbooks contained currency that had become mouldy with age. One bundle of $20 bills, totaling $2,500, bore the Farmers National Bank band dated 1914. She had obtained the money from the bank as part of the inheritance from the estate of her husband, Milton, who at the time of his death held the Pennsylvania state marksmanship championship.

Mrs. Brey's will also was found in the safe. She divides the estate among her three surviving brothers. Mrs. Brey lived alone.

SAILFISH CATCH SPURS HOOVER

By GEORGE R. HOLMES, International News Service.

LONG KEY, Fla., Feb. 1.—With the taste of victory to spur him on, President-elect Hoover today headed into the gulf stream, hoping for another long tussle with a six-foot sailfish. He bears the marks of the typical deep sea fisherman. His hands are blistered and cut, and his face burned almost scarlet.

Yesterday he tasted for the first time in a long life of fishing all over the world, the thrill and triumph of actually pulling a sailfish into his boat. In these same waters two years ago he had a sailfish on his line but failed to land it. On his trip last week he had two bites by the fighting denizen of the sea. In one instance the fish was able to bite the line in two and in the other the line fouled and broke. The one captured yesterday after 25-minute struggle weighed 45 pounds and six feet in length.

J. D., SR., BACKS SON IN FIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—Col. Robert W. Stewart, fighting the efforts of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., to depose him as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, faced a new and formidable foe today in John D. Rockefeller, Sr., retired ruler of the oil kingdom.

The 89-year-old organizer of the Standard Oil Company, who has not been active in the business world for 20 years and who previously had indicated he had no interest in the Indiana fight, came to the support of his son in a statement issued late yesterday. He praised his son's stand and said his conscience had forced him to quash reports that he would be pleased by the re-election of Col. Stewart.

While the aged oil magnate indicated he would not take an active part in the "financial battle of the century," it was said in Wall Street today that his formal indorsement of his son's position would increase materially the latter's chances of ousting Col. Stewart at the coming company election.

The aged magnate is wintering at Ormond Beach, Fla. His statement was issued through his New York offices.

Col. Stewart, who had said he would not believe John D. Rockefeller would desire his removal from the Indiana Oil chairmanship until he saw "positive proof of it," was in the city on a secret visit when the statement was issued. He refused to comment on any phase of the controversy.

Arthur Eisenhart, 46, Lockhart street, North Side, was committed to jail today by Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillen, of Carnegie, on a burglary charge. Eisenhart, it is alleged, entered the store of McFarland & Ritchie, Carnegie, yesterday afternoon and took $95 from the cash drawer. In a chase he was overtaken on the Wabash Railroad tracks by County Detectives Robert L. McMillan and Frank Ritz.

RELEASE ON BOND LOOMS FOR WOMAN "DRY" LIFER

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Release on bond pending a review of her case by the State Supreme Court loomed today for Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, mother and grandmother, now serving a life sentence as an "habitual offender" following four convictions for violating the prohibition law.

The State Supreme Court late yesterday issued a writ of error for review of Mrs. Miller's case. The petition for the appeal was filed Monday by State Senator Seymour Person, attorney for the woman.

Senator Person pointed out 54 citations of error during the trial that resulted in Mrs. Miller's fourth conviction in Ingham County Circuit Court on December 31. A petition for her release on bond was to be made by Senator Person today.

At the same time Gov. Fred W. Green presented to the Michigan House of Representatives his proposed legislation which would eliminate the widely-discussed "life for a pint of gin" sentence.

LOTTERY CASES UP TODAY

Prosecution of 244 indicted in the county grand jury probe of graft and vice will bring defendants accused of operating the clearing house pool into Cri inal Court today.

Justice of the Peace Wallace L. Baker, of Bellevue, was convicted yesterday on six counts of extortion and one count of malfeasance in office. He was released under $2,000 bail pending the filing of a motion for a new trial.

Henry Hecker, of Carrick; Mrs. Mary E. Shaffer, of Dormont, and James Murray, Philadelphia broker, formerly of Pittsburgh, accused of conducting a lottery, entered pleas of guilty last Saturday, with a hearing and disposition scheduled for today. The clearing house pool is alleged to have been widespread in the county and it is charged that tickets and records were seized in a plant under the office of Justice of the Peace Reed, of Greentree borough.

Mr. Coolidge was due to arrive at Mountain Lake, located almost squarely in the center of the state, promptly at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Equally promptly, he will leave there to return to Washington at 9:15 p. m. tonight. All invitations to tarry a while at various points in the East Coast's winter playground have been ignored. The chief executive will spend six hours in Florida and then start right back for the National Capital.

Ex-Ministry Student Held as Rum-Runner

ELKHORN, Wis., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—J. C. Salyer, 28, who described himself as a former theological student and one-time leader of religious services in the Army, was held today on a liquor law violation charge. Officers who arrested him last night said they found 135 one-gallon tins of alcohol in his automobile.

A confession, the prisoner was declared to have signed, stated that the alcohol was being taken from Chicago to Lacrosse, Wis., where his wife and three children live.

DEAF PUPILS HEAR THROUGH PITTSBURGHER'S INVENTION

For the first time in their lives they heard the sound of a human voice, late yesterday.

When their teachers placed an ordinary head telephone receiver over their heads yesterday at the Henry Martin school, pupils in the department for the deaf were amazed. A moment later when a human voice sounded in their ears they abandoned all pretense of schoolroom discipline and pranced about wildly.

FIRST SCHOOL TEST

It was the first schoolroom test ever made of the "radio ear" invented by E. A. Myers, of Pittsburgh. It is claimed that persons deaf from birth are enabled to hear by the Myers invention.

The apparatus was presented to the school here by a Canton man who refused to allow his name to be made public.

Within half an hour, after the first word had been spoken into the transmitting apparatus, from the teacher's desk, the children were able to speak simple words, the first intelligible sounds they had ever uttered. They also could hear themselves speaking.

TEACHES SPEECH SOUND

It is pointed out that many deaf persons lose the power to speak, presumably because they cannot hear themselves.

The human voice, it is explained, is transmitted through a microphone by wires to the receivers, which, in turn, set up a vibration in the auditory nerve, which is carried to the brain.

School authorities believe yesterday's demonstration may be the forerunner of a system which will revolutionize teaching of the deaf and dumb. They believe the "radio ear" will eventually teach students to speak intelligibly and that it may also enable many to hear without the aid of apparatus, through development of the auditory nerves.

Conductor, Cold, Builds Bonfire; Dies of Burns

Found along the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks at Leetsdale, suffering severe body burns, George Deitrich, 64, of 2849 Sarah street, a feright conductor, died in the Sewickley Valley Hospital today. While his train had stopped at Leetsdale for an hour, Deitrich, according to railroad reports, sought relief from the cold by building a bonfire from which his clothing ignited.

The crew of the train placed him aboard the train, where first aid was administered. All his clothing had been burned off save one shoe.

DEPORTED GIRL ON WAY

Separated from her mother, Mary Hornyak, 26, of 153 Pius street, South Side, was in New York today, prepared to sail on the steamer Amsterdam, en route to her former home in Hungary. Immigration authorities declare that the young woman is a public charge and must be deported.

In company with an immigration inspector and Mrs. John M. Phillips, club woman, who has fought to keep the young woman in this country, the South Side immigrant left for New York last night. Her mother accompanied her to the railroad depot and there said goodby.

The girl did not leave Pittsburgh penniless, a group of Hungarian church members from Hazelwood having given her a purse of $200. The steamship will take the young woman to Rotterdam, and from there she will go on to her former home in Hungary.

Miss Trout flew here yestreday from Modesto in her record plane to arrange for the flight.

SURGEON LAUDS TEMPERANCE CONTEST

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—"Prohibition, a most unethic war baby, was mothered by hysteria and though cradled for nine years still has neither teeth nor potency. It is today being nurtured by honest paralogists (fallacious reasoners) and hypocritically crooned to by leaders and statesmen who are lacking in moral courage to give expression to their convictions lest their personal interests may be affected by truthful utterances.

"Surely any sane man or woman who proclaims the benefits accruing from prohibition must be deliberately inflecting truth or is stupidly ignorant of existing conditions."

The above expression was received yesterday from a vigorous writer of Brooklyn, in entering a plan in the temperance prize contest, for which William Randolph Hearst donated $25,000 as the capital award. Besides the receipt of thousands of contest formulas designed to substitute true temperance for prohibition, in accordance with Mr. Hearst's offer, 2,000 persons have written from all parts of America for the contest rules. These are sent by mail on request and are also published daily in the Hearst newspapers.

Subjoined are further interviews revealing public opinion on the contest:

Charles W. Scheib, M. D.

Dr. Charles Wilbur Scheib, chief surgeon of Correction Hospital, Welfare Island, New York:

"From my observation of intolerable conditions I am entirely opposed to the workings of prohibition. Certainly temperance is a condition to be desired and one to which every physician should be willing to bend his efforts to bring about. At this hospital we have five or six hundred alcoholic cases annually.

"I entirely agree with Mr. Hearst's statements in offering a generous prize of $25,000 in order to bring forth the best plan to substitute temperance for prohibition. Prohibition should be left to the individual.

"Every physician knows it is true that there are persons so lacking in will power and self-control as to appear to need outside restraint, but I should hardly say that the present prohibition laws are proving of any benefit to them.

"The majority of people of average intelligence are entirely capable of practicing temperance, and by this I mean temperance, not only in drinking, but in eating, work and play. The laws of our country should permit and encourage them to practice this God-given right."

Justus S. Wardell

Justus S. Wardell, former collector of the port, San Francisco:

"The tactics of the ultra-drys are just as intolerant as those which are practiced by the ultra-wets. Mr. Hearst is right when he speaks of the 'powerful middle class' which favors temperance and is anxious to see a rational solution of the conditions which prevail throughout our country.

"I should like to see some plan proposed which recognizes that minorities have rights and which will eliminate from American lives the rank hypocrisy which pervades it.

"Such a plan would take in the drys. Mr. Durant, in his statement, asserted the greatest domestic enemy of the country was the bootlegger. The bootleggers, in most instances, are members of the criminal classes and could be handled by the police, if they were not encouraged by the more dangerous element in our body politic—the smug citizen clothed in a garment of respectability who professes sympathy for the dry laws and votes for their continuance and yet participates in their violation.

"I sincerely hope that something will grow out of Mr. Hearst's plan which will successfully promote the cause of temperance."

Dies

A. H. LESLIE

Artemas H. Leslie, for many years superintendent of the Allegheny County workhouse, who died yesterday after a seven-weeks' illness.

PRISON CHIEFS MOURN DEATH OF LESLIE

Messages of condolence from prison executives throughout the country were received today by the family of Artemus H. Leslie, 76, for almost 25 years superintendent of the Allegheny County Workhouse, who died late yesterday afternoon of pneumonia.

Mr. Leslie had made the Allegheny County Workhouse one of the model prison institutions of the country by his persistent study and improvement in the management of the institution, of which he was selected as superintendent in April, 1904, and for many years had been regarded as one of the leading prison executives of the United States.

Mr. Leslie was born January 5, 1853. He was educated in the public schools and was elected alderman of the old Seventeenth Ward, now the Ninth Ward, in 1884. In 1896 he was appointed superintendent of police, and was named as director of public safety in 1901, serving in that capacity until 1903.

During his young manhood, Supt. Leslie was active in Freemasonry and fraternal affairs and was a member of Lodge No. 45, F. & A. M.; Pittsburgh Commandery, Knights Templar; Syria Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S.; the Good Templars, the Junior Order United American Mechanics and the Odd Fellows. He also was a member and trustee of the Butler Street M. E. Church.

In addition to his widow, formerly Miss Ella Shaw, of Steubenville, O., he is survived by a brother, State Senator Max G. Leslie, and several nieces and nephews. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

Man Kills Himself With Stolen Pistol

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 1.—A guest at the Arden Hotel, 18 West Ninth street, committed suicide here yesterday with a revolver which he had stolen, according to police who were summoned after the victim's body was found at the hotel with two bullet wounds in his head. The man was identified as Juan Etrala, 38, alias Louis Hill, a medicine man, who came from La Barca, Jalisco, Mexico.

College Trustees Pinned Under Auto

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The Rev. Dr. Charles G. Stater, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Clarksburg, and John Raine, lumberman, of Rainelle, were injured when their automobile ran down an embankment and pinned both under it, yesterday.

They were on the way to a meeting of the trustees of West Virginia Wesleyan College, of which Raine is president and Dr. Stater a member.

Greene County Farm Bureau Meeting Set

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 1.—The annual meeting of the Greene County Farm Bureau will be held here February 16, it was announced today. Speakers will include E. S. Bayard, agricultural editor, of Pittsburgh, who recently returned from a tour of European farming sections. He is a former resident of Greene County and well known here.

Opinion on Blue Law Modification Is Divided

Bassett, Jr., L. H. Burnett, W. G. Costin, J. W. Cree, Jr., Miss H. Marie Dermitt, Joseph Dilworth, George R. Dorman, J. H. Hillman, Jr., Clifton Jenkins, Wilmer M. Jacoby, George W. McCandless, Wilson S. McClintock, Stewart C. McFarland, Frank Wilbur Main, E. W. Mudge, O. P. Nicola, Mrs. George S. Oliver, Eugene W. Pargny, William B. Rodgers, Mrs. W. B. Schiller, Lloyd W. Smith, John B. Tonkin, A. W. Wyckoff.

A meeting of the committee was called for tomorrow morning to effect a permanent organization.

Opinions of the 12 persons interviewed are given below:

FOR MODIFICATION

Dr. Percy G. Kammerer, dean of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Cathedral. So far as the blue laws are concerned, I should be glad to have them abolished, provided some reasonable form of regulation is provided for Sunday recreation.

Thomas F. Dunn, vice president of the Painter Dunn Company: The blue laws should have been modified 50 years ago. We are living under different conditions than those which prevailed in 1794. Pennsylvania has been behind the times in not changing these old laws. I would go farther than some advocates of modification. We might well take the New York state laws on Sabbath observance as a model. I am in favor of more amusements and diversions. If people want to attend a baseball game on Sunday, let them do it. If they want to go to the movies, let them go. I can't see how these things will interfere with church services.

Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor of the East End Christian Church:—The laws of 1794 should be amended. The code is too old-fashioned. Knowledge has progressed, and even our ethical standards have changed. The Sabbath was made for our good. I have a strong conviction that people should worship Sunday morning. But I like to see them play golf on Sunday afternoon. I do not believe in commercialized baseball on Sunday, but I see no harm in ball games played on that day by boys on vacant lots. Let them have a good time.

Dr. Daniel E. Sable, chief surgeon, Department of Public Safety:—I am heartily in accord with any movement to modify or repeal the Blue Laws. I believe Sunday the only day when many persons, particularly workers, can get the recreation and amusement so essential to their health.

P. J. McArdle, councilman—I most certainly favor liberalization of laws which govern recreational and amusement activities on Sunday.

William E. Best, attorney and member of the Metropolitan Planning Commission—I feel that repeal or modification of the Sunday blue laws should be brought about—something must be done about it.

AGAINST MODIFICATION

T. J. Gillespie, president of the Lockhart Iron and Steel Company and director of the Chamber of Commerce—I am opposed to any change in the Sunday laws and to any manifestatio for their so-called modification.

Dr. W. I. Wishart, president of the Pittsburgh Council of Churches—This movement for a modification of the Sabbath laws, like all its predecessors, is calculated to break down the traditions of our observance of the Lord's Day. It will not get very far in Pennsylvania. I cannot see how its proponents can ma..e a distinction between a commercial and an uncommercial Sabbath.

Knox M. Young, insurance broker and member of the Chamber of Commerce:—Quite a list of citizens were reported to be in favor of this bill, but in view of the fact that only 25 or 30 people attended the meeting it would appear that there is no crying demand for a revision of our Sabbath laws. It should be made plain that the Chamber of Commerce is not behind this bill.

Rev. Dr. R. H. Martin, president of the National Reform Association:—This latest agitation ostensibly for the "modification" of the Sunday laws may be classed with similar movements which have have been stirred up here in the past. It may appear inoffensive, but is in fact planned as the entering wedge for a wide-open, commercialized Sabbath. The absence of its principal sponsors at the Chamber of Commerce meeting seems to indicate it will produce no formidable results, but if this bill is reported to the Legislature for passage the friends of a quiet Sabbath will fight it until the end.

John W. Vickerman, member of the Pittsburgh Metropolitan Plan Commission: For 50 years the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce has been working for a greater city, and now, when this seems about to be realized through the metropolitan plan, the chamber becomes involved in this controversial question about Sabbath observance. While we are working for a greater city we want also a better city. This will not be accomplished by meddling with our Sunday laws.

William H. Pratt, counsel for the Allegheny County Sabbath Association: Pennsylvania is declared to have the best Sabbath observance of any state in the Union, and I do not think this latest group will get very far toward effecting any change. Practically all the rural members of the Legislature are opposed to any change in the existing Sabbath laws, and when it comes down to the fine point many of these people whose names appear in the papers as advocating modification do not make a fight for their principles.

Capt. Fried to Visit Only in Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Capt. George Fried, who will come to Washington late today to receive the commendation of President Coolidge and the Shipping Board for his rescue of the crew of the steamship Florida, will not make a tour of other cities before returning to his command on the liner America.

The Merchant Fleet Corporation announced that it had been decided not to ask Capt. Fried to extend his trip beyond Washington and that telegraphic invitations from other cities to the famous skipper were being declined.

Post-Mortem Held On Wood Plot Victm

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Results of the post-mortem examination last night of the body of Ambrose Haggerty, killed three weeks ago in Detroit, were to be made public this afternoon. The body of Haggerty, who was shot in what police were told was a plot on the life of Ralph A. Wood, Detroit real estate and lumber man, was exhumed here yesterday. The shooting occurred when Haggerty and two companions, William Thompson and Taylor Pierce, approached Wood's bungalow-office at night in what has been described as a death plot framed by Wood's wife.

The Richman Brothers Co.,
Cleveland, Ohio.

Gentlemen:

Your Pacific Coast Representative, Mr. H. W. Downs, asks that I confirm in a letter, my statements to him of 100% satisfaction in ordering Richman's Clothes from Los Angeles by mail to Cleveland.

I cheerfully comply, as my experience and satisfaction may be of "profit" benefit to other business men.

Some months ago I ordered two Richman suits and an overcoat. I now have "proof of the pudding." I am glad to testify to your qualifying in every particular with every promise made, and that includes a 10 day delivery from the date of taking the order in Los Angeles to the day the suits and overcoat arrived from Cleveland, also that the style, quality and fit met my most exacting expectations. Everything has proven 100% as represented.

I have been a purchaser for years of suits costing from $50.00 to $65.00, believing that "price" was a factor in appearing well. Occupying an Executive Sales position, it is desirable that I dress well, in my travels, as I lecture before Civic and Technical Associations and am constantly attending National Conventions. I have the mental satisfaction in wearing Richman's Clothes of knowing that the style, fit and quality of my apparel is equal to that of anyone I meet. In addition, I have saved considerable money and am able to have a larger variety of clothes to meet all business engagements.

There is no exaggeration to my enthusiastic appreciation of all the combined factors of your "economic merchandising system."

Very truly yours,
C. Homer Spotts

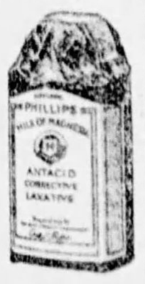
Get Rid of Colds Before They Weaken You, Make You Liable to More Serious Troubles

Nowadays it's important to stop your cold quick before it weakens your resistance to more serious trouble.

Any of the older treatments will bring relief—after a time. But thousands say this new way is the quickest of any.

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water, morning, noon, and night, the first day. Do same the second day. Then only at night. Colds reduce the alkaline balance of your system. That makes you feel achy, feverish, weak. Phillips Milk of Magnesia relieves this, and restores the alkaline balance.



Doctors prescribe Phillips Milk of Magnesia; hospitals use it. Millions know how it relieves sour stomachs, gas, indigestion, constipation and other symptoms of too much acid. Get the genuine.

GARDNER CALLS IN CIGARET CRUSADERS

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner announced today that he had summoned to his office Lawrence L. Vetterly, 748 Ross street, Wilkinsburg, for questioning as to alleged irregularities in the crusade Vetterly is conducting against Wilkinsburg and Swissvale confectonary stores for alleged sale of cigarets to minors.

Gardner also has sent for John Minor, 19, Wall, said to have made purchases of cigarets in the two towns.

Headed by Mrs. Anna Anger, who has a store at 1000 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, and E. L. Miller, proprietor of the Miller Sandwich Shop, 408 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, the merchants said they want Gardner to determine whether or not the procedure of arraignment was illegal.

Mrs. Anger and Miller said they were arraigned before Joyce on charges of selling cigarets to minors, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Joyce on charges of selling cigarets to minors, which were preferred by Vetterly, described by Joyce as "having a state commission." They said Vetterly used unfair methods in prosecuting their cases.

Vetterly and Minor, who said he purchased the cigarets, testified against the defendants, six of whom were fined $5 and ordered to pay costs amounting to $9.85. Fourteen merchants are yet to be arraigned.

The majority of those whose cases have not been heard, most of which are set for this afternoon and tonight, have declared their intention of ignoring the order to appear for hearings.

Weather Conditions.

The western high pressure area moved southeastward, diminishing in pressure. It is centered over Iowa and Missouri this morning and covers the entire country between the eastern and western mountain ranges, and from the Gulf to Canada. Highest barometer reported is 30.68 inches, at Keokuk, Ia. The high caused a decided drop in temperature over Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and southward to the gulf, but there was only a slight change over the Atlantic Coast states. Over the western plains and westward over the Rocky Mountain states there was a rise in temperature.

A disturbance of marked intensity occupies the far Northeast, and a disturbance appears off the North [illegible] and is spreading eastward to the Rocky Mountains. The precipitation was light.

River Conditions.

The rivers continue to fall slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 11.5 feet; Dam No. 2, 1.7, and Dam No. 6, 6.6. The dams are down. Light ice is running in the Allegheny and the Ohio.

Hollywood and Theaters Yield News Interesting to Theater Patrons

HIGH-SILK-HATTED PRODUCERS UNSCHEDULED FEATURE OF FLICKER PARTY

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

Another Mayfair. Glorifying terpischore for, by, and with the flickerites. At ye Biltmore hostelry.

The feature of the evening—unpublicized but appreciated—was the arrival of Harry Cohen, Columbia producer, and Jack Warner, the Vitaphone magnate, in silk top hats.

Gwen Lee and Tom Mix, Mary Brian and Matty Kemp made a congenial foursome at one table. Pat Rooney, Jr., visited lengthily and seemed rather captivated by Mary. Pat wore dark suede shoes. Also a tuxedo.

Ray Dooley and Eddie Dowling were in the Harold Lloyds' party. It was their first Mayfair and they had the time of their lives. Mrs. Harold Lloyd (Mildred Davis) has gained considerable weight. She glittered swell in a rhinestone dress. Mr. and Mrs. Al Christie, Mr. and Mrs. George Weeks and Jimmy Hamlin, the song writer, also were at Harold's table.

Mildred Davis.

Sharon Lynn came in with Johnny Hines. Gary Cooper, six foot something, and Lupe Velez, five foot something, danced every dance together. Really, this is serious. Lupe vowed I had to come over and see the eagles Gary gave her, but I stipulated there would be no birding them in the den. To which she agreed.

Miss Brent at "Ringside" Table

EVELYN BRENT and Harry D. Edwards had a ringside table. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jackson (he's the detective in "Broadway") and Betty Francisco were in their party. Lowell Sherman was scheduled to come out, but Lowell is playing "The Guardsman" these days and sentinel duty is a bit wearying.

Around midnight, Gus Edwards took the floor—a phenomenon that has occurred before—and staged a typical Edwards Revue. Being great if one enjoys that sort of thing. Opinion seemed divided, with the majority of the Mayfairers saying they preferred impromptu entertainment if they must have entertainment. Indeed, the crowd was quite small this particular eve. Which broke around 3 a. m.

Gus Edwards

Sally Blane has signed a flourishing contract with a film company wherein a clause stipulates she will not marry for its five-year duration without the company's consent. Sally knows her headlines.

Bebe Daniels' New Costume

HOWARD GREER, fashion director, says:

Bebe Daniels' favorite luncheon costume is a sport-type jacket suit of black and banana printed satin. The sleeveless jumper is of plain banana satin, with an appliqued scroll of the print at the neck. The skirt is flat at the back and cut circular in the front. The finger-tip jacket is unlined and bound with a narrow strip of the plain satin.

Mrs. Reginald Denny eats gravy and mashed potatoes for luncheon because papa (that's Reggie in person) wants her to get a little fatter. Being merely a dietetic comment.

Snow Land for Boyd and Mrs.

SCREEN SCRIBS, LILA LEE watching JOHNNY FARROW and HARRIET PARSONS play tennis. Johnny immediately after, dashed off to take an aeronautic driver's lesson. CHRISTY CABANNE, the director, has returned from England where he made three pictures. He will make one production here and then traipse to Italy to make an expensive flicker which Mussolini is interested in. Christy figures mebbe he'll take MARCELINE DAY over as the leading fem. . . . WILLIAM BOYD, with Marie Provost his heroine (this subject to change, of course), is getting ready to hit up into the snow country somewhere near the Canadian border. Purpose: Exteriors for "High Voltage," a picture, not a complaint. Mrs. Boyd—Elinor Fair—will go with hubby so that the freezing will be mutual. . . . And—that's all.

Hollywood Gets Honeymooners Back Again

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1.—Hollywood honeymooners are drifting back into town. Alice Mills and her hubby are back from Hawaii and will be here awhile before departing for the round-the-world cruise which will be the main event. Lina Basquette has also returned and is busy rehearsing for her vaudeville appearance. It is Lina's intention to remain active in stage and screen work, and as soon as the present theatrical venture is concluded she'll be back in films.

W. Va. Horticultural Society in Session

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 1.—The annual convention of the West Virginia Horticultural Society is in session here with 300 fruit growers from this and adjacent states present.

Dr. H. E. Knowlton, of West Virginia University; H. B. Davis, of the state Department of Agriculture; J. J. Gardner, of the United States Department of Agriculture, and Dean F. D. Fromme, of the college of agriculture at West Virginia University, spoke yesterday.

Negro Tenor Sings Here Monday Night

Three May Beegle concerts are scheduled for next week. On Monday evening Roland Hayes, Negro tenor, will give a concert in Carnegie Music Hall. On Tuesday evening Albert Spalding, American violinist, will give the sixth Beegle Concert in Syria Mosque. On Friday evening Rachmaninoff, Russian composer-pianist, will be heard in Carnegie Music Hall. These recital attractions will be followed on February 11 and 13 with the German Grand Opera in "Die Walkure" and "Tristan and Isolde" in Syria Mosque.

Five New Screen Theme Songs Announced

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1.—Five new motion picture theme songs, dedicated to Mary Pickford, Dolores del Rio, Lupe Velez, Camilla Horn and Eleanor Boardman, are announced today by United Artists.

Irving Berlin has composed "Coquette" for the Mary Pickford picture of that name.

Al Jolson has composed "Evangeline" for the Dolores del Rio film version of Longfellow's poem.

Berlin's "Where is the Song of Songs for Me?" recurs through the reels of "Lady of the Pavements," in which Lupe Velez sings. This is the new D. W. Griffith picture.

"Eternal Love" is the name of the theme song for the John Barrymore-Ernst Lubitsch production in which Camilla Horn is leading lady. It was composed by Peter de Rose, Dave Dreyer and Ballard MacDonald.

"Joan," dedicated to the character portrayed by Eleanor Boardman in "She Goes to War," was composed by Lewis and Young and Harry Akst, composers of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh."

MAYOR NAMES ACCOUNTANT

Frank T. Halloran, of 4201 Penn avenue, alderman of the Ninth Ward, has been appointed by Mayor Charles H. Kline as chief accountant in the Bureau of Costs, Mayor's office, at a salary of $4,000 a year. The position has been vacant since December 15, 1926, and formerly was held by J. C. Slippy.

Halloran, who is serving his second term as alderman, was defeated last year for Republican chairman of the Ninth Ward by Noble Matthews, a close political associate of State Senator M. G. Leslie. Before his election as alderman, Halloran was employed with the Albion Milk Company.

Promotion for First Officer to Kill Bandit

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A flurry of crime in Memphis has brought orders from Chief of Police Will Lee to his force to "shoot to kill, and the first man to bag a bandit gets promoted."

Patrolmen J. B. Cummings and John F. Edgerly, suspended because they stood by while two robbers held up a drug store, have been reinstated on their plea that they were unable to draw their pistols on account of the long frock coats of the regulation police uniform.

Pittsburgh Actor Quits Screen For Stage

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1.—Kenneth Thomson, former Pittsburgher, has fled the screen.

After completing the "Broadway Melody," Thomso packed up his belongings and left for the east to return to the stage.

The actor has been in pictures the last two years, having been under contract to Cecil B. De Mille. It is the second time he has quit the movies. Some years ago he abandoned the stage for screen work—returning to the footlights shortly after.

DAVIS ACTS TO HAVE MASTER

Jack Benny, comic, in addition to offering his own monologue, will be master of ceremonies for the entire bill of two-a-day Keith-Albee-Orpheum vaudeville in the Davis next week. Chaney and Fox, in dances, will be prominent on the program.

Max and Nathaniel Lief, dramatic critics of the New York Mirror, wrote the lyrics for "Pleasure Bound," the new Winter Garden Revue, which the Messrs. Shubert will present in the Alvin next week. The Lief brothers also wrote the lyrics for "Luckee Girl," another Shubert musical attraction, now playing in Chicago.

Next week in the Nixon Arthur Hammerstein will present "The End of St. Petersburg." Quinn Martin, critic of the New York World, said: "Of all the pictures playing in New York, 'The End of St. Petersburg' is in many ways the finest."

"I'M THE GUY" NEVER GETS CHANCE TO REST

"It takes a man with age to manage" read I'M THE GUY as he selected today's winners.

"That's one of the smartest wise cracks I've seen," he said. I'M THE GUY was probably looking at the day's pile of mail sent by wise cracking Pittsburghers in response to I'M THE GUY'S contest.

And it's no easy job managing a contest like I'M THE GUY'S. Not for one day, since the contest began, has I'M THE GUY had a chance to rest, and that is why he agrees that it takes a man with ages of contest experience to manage the I'M THE GUY CONTEST and judge the flood of daily replies received.

Read over today's winners and see how easy it is to write I'M THE GUY wisecracks. Then sit down and write a few yourself and mail them to I'M THE GUY, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh.

Following are the selections for today:

$5 PRIZE WINNER.

I'm the Guy who knows it takes a man with age to manage." By Mrs. Margaret Cline, 865 West North avenue, North Side.

$1 PRIZE WINNERS.

"I'm the Guy who stole the 'E' from Egypt and got gypt." By Louis Alexander, 315 Oakland avenue, Charleroi, Pa.

"I'm the Guy who took the 'use' out of useful to make it 'Useless.'" By Michael J. Guidas, P. O. Box 580, Greensburg, Pa.

"I'm the Guy that put the cross in crossings to stop the dents in accidents." By Margaret Anderson, 415 East End avenue.

"I'm the Guy who added an 'l' to pa to make him my pal." By Al Zisman, 37 Roberts street.

"I'm the Guy that believes in safety, because I saw the sign in signal." By Evelyn McConaghey, 6920 Bishop street.

Drivers Are Warned To Protect Horses

Special officers of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society have been assigned to night duty during the present cold spell to see that drivers of horse-drawn conveyances give proper protection with blankets to the animals. In addition to warning numerous drivers last night that a second offense will bring prosecution, the society officers ordered several horses back to the stables for rough shoes.

Take HILL'S for that COLD!

To stop a cold quickly and completely you must do four things all at once. You must (1) break up the cold (2) check the fever (3) open the bowels (4) tone the system. That is what HILL'S CASCARA-QUININE tablets do. That's why they stop a cold in twenty-four hours.

U. S. FLU STUDY WILL INCLUDE PITTSBURGH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Public health officials announced yesterday that the national study of influenza by its officers is under way in Seattle, Kansas City, Mo., and San Francisco.

Other cities in which efforts of the public health service will center in the plan of gathering information about the disease first-hand are Cincinnati, Des Moines, New Orleans, Pittsburgh and Baltimore.

Investigations, involving house-to-house canvassing in the selected cities, are under the direction of Dr. M. V. Veldee, of Cincinnati. Data collected by officers working under his supervision, in co-operation with local health officials, will be turned over to Assistant Surgeon General A. M. Stimson here for analysis.

These field investigations, it was announced, are being conducted simultaneously with laboratory research. The public health service, it was said, hopes to find through the effort some clue which would lead to more effective epidemic control methods.

Carl DeBasi Accused Of Trying Auto Theft

MORGAN AND YOUNG SAIL TONIGHT FOR PARIS MEET

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Owen D. Young and J. P. Morgan, unofficial American members of the committee of experts on German reparations, will sail on the Aquitania tonight for the Paris meetings.

Thomas W. Lamont, of J. P. Morgan & Co., an alternate to the conference, also will sail on the Aquitania, but Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston, the other alternate, postponed his departure due to illness in his family.

The first meeting of the experts, at which a permanent settlement of the reparations questions will be sought, will be held February 9. The sessions are expected to continue from 30 to 60 days.

Nicaragua Deputies Favor Martial Law

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The Chamber of Deputies has adopted a resolution establishing martial law in the three northern departments of Nicaragua where outlaw bands have been active.

Three American marines recently were killed in this district in a clash with the outlaws. The resolution already has been adopted by the Senate, but must go back to that body again for consideration of several amendments.

REWARD UP FOR GIRL'S BODY

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Authorities late today turned to a $100 reward for the recovery of the body of Miss Verna Klink, as a last resort to solve the mysterious disappearance.

Their efforts to determine in what manner Miss Klink, a confectionery manager, came to her death, if she died, balked at every turn, police and other officials didn't appear overly hopeful of clearing up the case. The man they believe responsible for her disappearance, Harry B. Bowman, still clings to his original story—that the woman drowned herself in a siucide pact with him, which he failed to keep on his part.

FAST TRAIN ROARS ALONG, ENGINEER DEAD AT POST

BRYAN, O., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A through freight train on the Cincinnati & Northern line traveled for three miles between Bryan and the village of Ney yesterday with a dead engineer at the throttle.

Harvey A. Freyermuth, 56, of Vanwert, a veteran train pilot, received his orders here apparently in good health.

He threw open the throttle and the freight pulled out toward Ney, six miles away. About two miles from Bryan, Freyermuth died of an apoplectic stroke, but his body remained firm in its position in the cab, so much so that the fireman, L. J. Hirsch, of Vanwert, was completely deceived.

Then Hirsch noted that the train passed a crossing and that Freyermuth did not sound the whistle. He kept on shoveling coal into the fire. Another crossing was passed without a whistle. When this happened a third time, Hirsch tapped the engineer on the shoulder and his body slumped forward.

Hirsch then took the throttle himself and piloted the train into Ney.

The spot where Freyermuch died was established by the discovery of his cap along the tracks about two miles from Bryan. The train was bound for Cincinnati from Jackson, Mich.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 1.—Raymond Boston, 30, of Baltimore, approached a city policeman here and asked to be arrested, saying he was wanted in Baltimore for desertion and non-support.

"Well, you see, I've got a four-month-old baby over home and I just can't stay away from him any longer," he replied as he was taken to jail.

PATRICIA PITT'S SOCIAL COMMENT

Plans Go on Merrily For Debuts of Fall And Spring

WHEN it comes to planning things the weather has no influence on us at all, even the weather must concede, for with the whirling snow outside some of us can still plan events for June, such as debuts. Really plans for the coming season, as soon as one is over, are as inevitable as winter or spring or fall or summer.

Even if we do go on arranging for the coming social season, we feel the influence of the weather. And when one awakens as on a morning like this, with large, downy flakes careening merrily about us, we feel like careening, too. And with such a dashing feeling it's no wonder that the coming season becomes more and more alluring, and the debutantes of 1929 more and more attractive.

SEWICKLEY'S bouquet of buds is surely going to blossom out in 1929. And there are more and more buds. Another girl from that exclusive valley who'll make her bow will be Elizabeth Miller, daughter of the William Booth Millers, of Sewickley. Her older sister, Nancy, came out, I remember, two seasons ago.

Elizabeth is still in school. She's a student, did you know, at the Erskine School in Boston? Her father and mother are planning to give a dinner dance for her on December 28, I've learned. Whether Elizabeth will make her first formal bow to the grown-up social world on that date or in the fall at a tea has not been decided.

Elizabeth's father and mother, by the way, have just come back from New York.

* * *

THERE'S a rumor that Dorothy Jarvis, daughter of the Frank W. Jarvises, also of Sewickley, may come out in June, when Sewickley will have a "little season" that will truly scintillate. Her father and mother, I've learned, haven't definitely decided, however, whether to present her in June or in the fall. Dorothy will be a debutante next season, though, whether she's a June or autumn bud. This year she's still in the schoolroom at Dobbs Ferry, which graduates many a debutante.

* * *

MRS. DOUGLAS STEWART, of Solway street, hasn't set a definite date, either, for the debut of her daughter, Anne Stewart, who is among the first on the long list of debutantes for next season, to number 45, according to those best informed in debutante matters. Anne, like many of her sister buds-to-be, is studying this year, and her school is Farmington.

MANY who expect to be in Pittsburgh until late next month, are taking advantage of the lull in society events, a lull that will continue for many weeks, to visit friends in the East. Catherine Crutchfield, daughter of the James S. Crutchfields, of Glen Osborne, left last night for Philadelphia. From there she'll go to Washington and New York to be the guest of friends.

THE Ambrose Nevin Diehls, of Hobart street, will be back in town tomorrow, I've heard. They've been in the South more than a month.

DOWN in Sewickley small entertainments are in vogue. Mrs. Howell C. Cooper gave a buffet supper and bridge in her home Thursday night for Miss Rhonda Edwards, who'll leave this evening for Wichita, Kan., to spend the winter.

* * *

DINNERS each Thursday and Saturday night and buffet suppers every Sunday night are included among the social events planned for February by the Pittsburgh Country Club. A bridge luncheon for women members and their friends is set for Tuesday afternoon at the club.

* * *

MRS. HENRY E. CLINGMAN, of Church avenue, Ben Avon, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mildred Clingman, and Joseph P. Pricer, of this city, which was solemnized last night at 8:30 o'clock in the Clingman home by the Rev. G. Meade Dougherty, pastor of the Ben Avon Methodist Episcopal Church. Only the families witnessed the ceremony, and there were no attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Pricer will take a trip to the West Indies, and after March 1 will be at home in Church avenue.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. FRED BJORN, of Kambach street, Mt. Washington, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Tyra F. Bjorn, to James Lowell Strader, son of the Rev. J. C. Strader, of Philippi, W. Va. Mr. Strader is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh.

WOMEN of the L. M. and N. unit of St. Lawrence's Catholic Church will hold a card party and bake sale tomorrow afternoon in the school hall, Penn and Atlantic avenues. The O. to Z. group is to hold a card party and dance next Thursday night in the school hall.

* * *

MRS. MARY M'ILVAINE GEDDIS, of Northumberland street, entertained with a matinee party at the Davis Theater this afternoon. There were 12 guests.

THE Carrick Dames of Malta No. 264, will hold a euchre, "500" and Old Maid party tonight in the Carrick G. B. U. Hall, Brownsville road.

THE Fuyospo Club of Homewood will hold a dance Thursday night in the Wilkinsburg Masonic Temple, South avenue.

The grand duke will speak Monday of next week on "Out of My Life;" Dr. Weidlein will follow the next week with "The Working Methods of the Scientist;" Dr. Morize is to speak on "America Through Latin Eyes." Thursday afternoon programs for the month include a cabaret, a piano recital by Frank Sheridan, a program luncheon arranged by the current interests committee, and a recital by Virginia Kendrick, contralto, Virginia Brown Wilharm, pianist, and Harvey Gaul, speaker.

THE Epoch Club has shifted its plans a bit and will have its guest day on the afternoon of February 14 in the home of Mrs. Frank D. Newbury, Briar Cliff road. The program scheduled for February 14 was presented yesterday morning when the club met with Mrs. C. C. Burgess, of Thomas boulevard. The beautiful gardens of Spain were most delightfully described by Mrs. J. Harry Letsche. Mrs. Letsche referred to the centenary celebration which Granada is planning this year to commemorate the occupation of the Alhambra Palace by Washington Irving. Mrs. E. J. Searles presented a paper on "Romance and Decline of Moorish Cities," referring particularly to Cordoba, Seville and Granada and the contrasting ones on the opposite coast, Barcelona and San Sebastian. Mrs. H. W. Cope read from Richard Harding Davis' "Rock of Gibraltar."

A LUNCHEON and card party at the Food Craft Shop are being planned by the Health Colony Club for February 13. For its reciprocity day program in the Congress next Tuesday the club will have a program presented by the New Era Club. Dr. W. N. St. Peter, of the University of Pittsburgh, will speak on "The Ultra Violet Ray in Laboratory," and Mrs. Jerome Schaub will conduct a vocal quartet consisting of Miss Marie Sybert, Mrs. John H. Lauer, Mrs. Thomas Noonan and Mrs. Thomas Carroll.

MRS. I. Devotion of Girl Saves Life Of Father

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Because 12-year-old Marjorie Lidgard never gave up hope that her estranged parents might some day be reconciled through their love for her, John Lidgard, the child's father, is alive today.

Marjorie lives with her mother and elder sister, while her father lives alone a few blocks away. Every morning when Marjorie starts off for school she has been in the habit of stopping at her father's home to rap on his bedroom window and tell him that "everybody sends their love."

She rapped yesterday, but there was no response. She went around to the back door and smelled gas. She ran to the home of neighbors and summoned aid. They broke down the door and found Lidgard unconscious from the gas, pouring from two stove jets. A pulmotor squad revived Lidgard.

Robbed, Blind Man Says Holdup Voice Was Friend's

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The ears of a blind man became his eyes in Criminal Court yesterday when Richard Boehler, who cannot see, identified Fred Leonardi as a highwayman.

"He was my friend," said Boehler, an organist. "He was taking me home in his car. The car stopped. He got out. I heard him walk around to my side. Then came the words, 'Stick 'em up.' He took $99 and a watch.

"It was my friend Leonardi. I couldn't mistake a voice."

FINE FOR CHILDREN!

Give them a good start in life, with happy smiles and healthy little bodies. Children need a mild corrective occasionally to regulate stomach and bowels. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a safe vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. They tone up and regulate the eliminative tract. Not a nasty cathartic or a habit-forming medicine, but a safe, pleasant remedy for constipation, sour stomach, torpid liver, bad breath and similar disorders. Dr. Edwards, a widely known family physician of Ohio, prescribed these tablets for many years in his own practice. Children from six years up are greatly helped by them and like to take them. Recognized by their olive color. Dr Edwards' Olive Tablets overcome those irritable spells that many children are subject to, keep their bodies in active, healthy condition, skin clear and eyes bright with the light of perfect health. 15c, 30c and 60c sizes.

ALIEN DENIED CITIZENSHIP

The petition of Frank Arnone, 35, an Italian, of Epiphany street, for American citizenship, was denied Thursday in Federal Court by Judge Nelson McVicar. The petition was opposed by the naturalization authorities who contend the applicant served a sentence in prison for murder.

Arnone contended that for more than five years, having been pardoned July 12, 1923, he has been law abiding and of good moral character. The records of the naturalization office show Arnone was convicted of second degree murder April 12, 1915, at Brookville, Pa., and sentenced to serve 12 to 20 years in the penitentiary.

In opposing the petition, the immigration authorities admitted the pardon being granted five years ago, but said that if Arnone had served the minimum period of sentence he would not have been released until 1927.

Council has authorized 5,000 copies of the code for distribution upon request to the Health Department.

TRY MAGNESIA FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

To Neutralize Acidity and Fermentation. Prevents Indigestion, Sour, Gassy Stomach.

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and know these things will not cure their trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.

This Einstein has proved a great comfort to us that always knew we didn't know much. He has shown us that the fellow that we thought was smart is just as dumb as we are.

The Senate investigates everything. It would be worth the money to see 'em light on this. Still, I guess they would do about as well as they do on some other things.

It's printed in the papers here, after coming over by radiograph. It's either a laundry slip, or a night club bill. I think this fellow is just having a quiet laugh at the world's expense.

Yours, WILL.

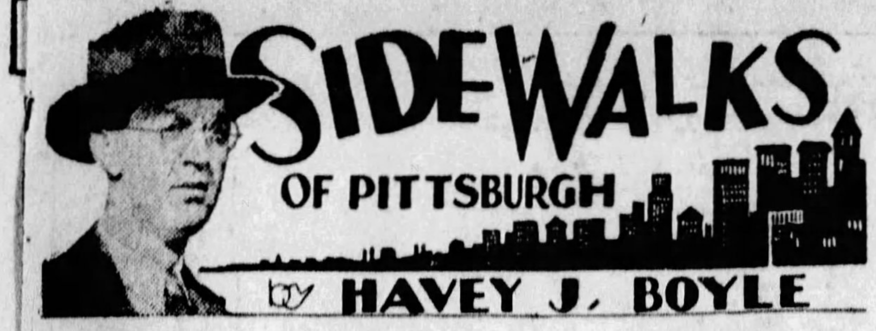
METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

CLANCEY QUITS POLICE FORCE; MALONE 'FIRED'



SOME time ago a new tipstaff was being sworn in at the Court House. A crowd gathered—judges, tipstaffs and clerks and a few hangers-on. Among the latter was a seedy looking individual, who, taking advantage of the general air of cordiality, pressed himself upon the notables assembled and shook hands in a fashion that might have indicated he was of the same graduation class of some of the men assembled. While momentarily noticed he was soon forgotten by all except one individual in the crowd—Lawrence Bartley, chief court crier and former assistant superintendent of police.

At this point a generous soul offered Mr. Bartley a cigaret. "Could I have one?" asked the seedy-looking stranger. He could. He was on the point of lighting it when he snuffed out the match and put the cigaret into his pocket.

* * *

ABOUT an hour later, with leave-takings being in order, Judge Sylvester Snee, casually and mechanically reached for his overcoat. It was as totally absent as some of those articles whose removal made a famous woman's cupboard and an undernourished dog almost historic.

In the place of Judge Snee's coat, however, was one that might have been fine for wrapping around a cake of ice, or for covering the top of a piano about to be shipped, but certainly had no great practical use as a garment for a member of our local court. It was far from the judicial ermine.

There was something about the nondescript rag, however, that attracted Lawrence Bartley. He reached into the pocked (not without a certain daring) and discovered only a cigaret. Bartley then recalled the wearer of the uncouth gaberdine and refreshed the memories of the tipstaffs as to the owner's appearance. It was generally recalled that there had been a man about who had owned the air of having attended class reunions with the gentlemen present.

* * *

IT DEVELOPED that someone recalled how the stranger in a moment of pardonable pride had remarked that he had once or twice graced the free bed and board of the Volunteers of America.

At this point Maj. Ives, of the Volunteers now enters this story.

Maj. Ives at the request of Mr. Bartley produced pictures of the men who pose on various occasions at fetes and such things held by the Volunteers. There was a group snapped at a free dinner. The practiced eye and lively memory of Mr. Bartley soon picked out the stranger in question. While it is not a necessary corollary, it happened that the stranger was a waiter in a semi-professional way, waiting on table at free dinners, and that he lived, when possible, in Lawrenceville.

Within a few days the stranger was brought before the penetrating and accusing eye of Mr. Bartley. The fact that the stranger had no overcoat, although it was quite cold that day, was what Sherlock Holmes would have described to his physician-friend as elemental. "Where's your coat?" asked Mr. Bartley. "I haven't any," said the stranger. "Come, come," said Mr. Bartley, "It's too cold to be without a coat. Here's one I'll give you," with which remark he flashed the tattered garmnt that had been bequeathed to Judge Snee.

THE prisoner held out for awhile, but when Mr. Bartley produced the very cigaret that had been placed and left in the pocket, the stranger just about gave in. He asked to be allowed to smoke the cigaret. Finally, he admitted that he had stolen the coat, had pawned it, and spent the proceeds for a fairly good cargo of what has come to be known in the trade as "moon." Judge Snee, with some little expenditure, recovered his coat after the pawnshop in question was found.

There are two morals here: First that judges should watch their overcoats and second that thieves should eschew Lady Nicotine. Running third is the lesson that in stealing an overcoat whatever you do don't leave your old one behind.

SUN-TELEGRAPH LAD EARNING $17 A WEEK

Do you think a newsboy who makes $17 a week needs "protection?"

William Lang, 16, of 306 Sefler street, McKees Rocks, earns that much. And the Sun-Telegraph is the only Pittsburgh evening or Sunday paper that he handles.

William is one of the 28 boys in McKees Rocks who are supplied with their papers by John R. Noble, news dealer, of 708 Chartiers avenue. They are all Sun-Telegraph boys and do not care to sell any other Pittsburgh evening or Sunday paper.

AVERAGE $4

They average from $2 to $4 a week for a few hours' work after school. Joseph Maritz, 14, of Thompson avenue, makes $6 a week, and so does his cousin, also Joseph Maritz, and also 14, of Guthrie street.

The boys of Noble's agency are loyal to him. All have rejected the invitation to drop the Sun-Telegraph and take up another paper for "protection." They say they need no "protection" of that kind. They are satisfied with their earnings and working conditions. One of his boys, Fred Koller, of 308 Sefler street, has been with the agency for 14 years, starting when he was 10.

VETERANS OFFER AID

A fine testimonial to Noble's fair treatment was given by some of the older newsboys who had stopped selling papers. When he decided to handle the Sun-Telegraph exclusively, of the Pittsburgh evening and Sunday papers, they came to him and offered to help him swell his sales and get new subscribers for the Sun-Telegraph.

The suggestion that Noble's newsboys need "protection" has been deeply resented.

SLOAN SCHOLARSHIP CLUB ASKS COURT FOR CHARTER

Application for a charter for the Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club has been filed in Common Pleas Court by 200 prominent Pittsburgh club and society women. The application states the club is being promoted to give scholarships and financial assistance to worthy students.

Following are the directors:

Wed 40 Years Deserted for 16, Asks Divorce

Married almost 40 years ago, action for divorce has just been filed in Common Pleas Court by Mrs. Mattie Jordan, 7730 Tioga street, against Charles L. Jordan, 102 Orphan street. They were married December 5, 1889, and she claims he deserted her October 10, 1912. She waited 16 years before filing the suit.

CALL TO CHURCH ACCEPTED

Dr. James Elvin Wagner, former pastor of Fourth street First Methodist Episcopal church, Wheeling, W. Va., an eloquent speaker and noted for his stand in the enforcement of the prohibition laws, will deliver his initial sermon in his new charge, Mount Lebanon Methodist Episcopal church, Dormont, Sunday morning.

He is a graduate of Iowa University and has taken post-graduate work in the universities of Tennessee and Texas. Before going to Wheeling, Dr. Wagner served a number of important pastorates, among them being Omaha, Neb., and Wooster, Mass. In the latter city, he was instrumental in combining the two down-town churches and then building a million dollar church, which is considered the second finest edifice of this denomination in the United States.

REOPEN FIGHT FOR PAY RAISE

Police Lieutenant Harry Keisling, of Carnegie, a brother of Chief of Police Christ H. Keisling, has just announced the reopening of a two-year-old fight for an increased wage for the borough officers. He plans to carry his case before the borough Council in an effort to have the increased scale in the annual budget to be submitted in April. He pointed out that his hourly wage about equals that of the street cleaners.

Harry Bigham, borough clerk, claims that Lieut. Keisling's salary is $150 a month. The street cleaner's salary is based on the hourly scale, and they receive 40 cents an hour for 10 hours a day, but is off on Sunday.

NEW PAY RAISE GIVEN HERE BY P. R. R.

Twenty-five hundred more employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the Pittsburgh district are to receive a wage increase, it was learned today from E. W. Smith, vice president of the Central Region.

The new raise, announced today, affects maintenance of way and structural departments.

The increase, which follows a raise for yard and shopmen announced two days ago, will add about $40,000 to the railroad company's annual payroll in the Pittsburgh district. The pay of bridge and building foremen and inspectors and their assistants is to be increased $5 a month, while the wages of many other workers will be increased four cents an hour.

This increase is part of that granted all maintenance of way and structural employes of the railroad, amounting to a total of $450,000 and affecting 750,000 workers in the whole system.

TWO WORKMEN BURIED UNDER LANDSLIDE

Frantic efforts of fellow workmen saved two men from death beneath several tons of earth which collapsed and crashed down upon them today in Forward avenue, between Murray avenue and Beechwood boulevard. Four others barely escaped.

The victims are in Mercy Hospital, badly injured. They are Thomas Certia, 34, 668 Lenora street, and Domenick Dogostino, 33, 627 Naylor street.

FIRE LOOSENS EARTH

Certia and Dogostino, with four other laborers, employes of J. A. West, contractor, were digging out the side of a hill for building lots. Fourteen feet above them extended a great ledge of frozen rock and dirt. Efforts to dislodge it with pick and shovel failed, and a fire was built beneath the ledge in an attempt to thaw it.

The ledge let go. Certia and Dogostino and four others were standing directly beneath it. Four managed to escape. One of the men was saved by a wheelbarrow which kept th frozen earth from crushing him.

Certia and Dogostino were completely covered by the heavy slab of frozen earth. Pick and shovels were plied vigorously for 15 minutes or more before the imprisoned men were reached. Certia was badly crushed about the body and head. Dogostino about the legs and body.

3 NEW CITY DETECTIVES APPOINTED

City Detective John P. Clancey, long a stormy petrel in Hill police and political circles, retired on pension today after 22 years' service, Public Safety Director James M. Clark announced.

At the same time Clark announced the dismissal of Detective Frank B. Malone "for the good of the service" and retirement on pension of Detective John Hickey, also a veteran of 22 years service. Appointments to fill the vacancies were announced as follows:

William Stewart, 2642 Penn avenue, a former city detective; Edward Sullivan, 3520 Butler street, a former patrolman, and A. S. Carter, 3260 Richardson avenue, former sergeant.

Clancey entered the service August 26, 1907. He was successively patrolman, lieutenant, commissioner, traffic commissioner and inspector. He became a detective August 1 after serving as inspector since the advent of the Kline administration.

ROAST BEEF has to be properly prepared, or it isn't edible! Choose the cut of beef you prefer, wipe and trim it. Put the rack in the roasting pan, for the beef ought not to rest on the bottom of the pan.

Dredge the meat lightly with flour and slide it into a very hot oven. If the pan begins to smoke or burn, add a little boiling water, just enough to prevent burning. After 15 minutes, reduce the heat to what we would term hot, and roast the beef, allowing 12 to 15 minutes to the pound for rare roast beef, depending on the size of the roast; or 15 to 20 minutes to the pound for roast beef mediumly well done.

The inside of the beef should be pink—if it is, then your beef is properly roasted. When almost done, add the salt and pepper, and baste the roast every 10 minutes or so, to keep it juicy.

CUSTOM decrees that Yorkshire pudding be served with roast beef, so let's serve it. Mix and sift a cup of flour and a half teaspoon of salt, gradually add two scant cups of milk, beating to make a smooth paste; then add four eggs, beating thoroughly with an egg beater.

Have ready a well greased shallow pan, pour mixture into it and let it stand 10 minutes; then slide it into the hot oven and bake 20 minutes, basting it with dripping from the roast. Then the pudding will be brown and have the flavor of the fat and juices from the meat. You can't go wrong with this recipe!

BIRD'S NEST SALAD sounds alluring, doesn't it? And it is, too. Halve three large tomatoes and remove the inside. Season one and one-half cupfuls of cottage cheese with one-eighth teaspoon of white pepper, salt to taste, one-fourth teaspoon of paprika. Chill thoroughly, and form the cheese into balls the size of large marbles. Put three balls into each tomato half, and serve with mayonnaise.

For the Coffee Chocolate Pudding, whip a pint of heavy cream until it is quite stiff. Add a half cup of sugar. Pour a cup of strong, boiling coffee into four tablespoons of melted sweet chocolate. Add two tablespoons of chopped almonds, then beat slowly into the whipped cream. Mix well and pour into a mold, covering tightly. Pack in ice and salt for four hours. You'll find this a most delicious dessert.

IT seems that advancing too far often brings as bad results as not advancing at all. Our grandparents, for example, were satisfied with hardy food that meant exercise for the teeth and a good feast for the digestion.

Food is now eaten in more and more refined form until the cry is "More roughage." Now we will have to go back a few steps and effect a compromise between our forefather's diet and our own.

Whole wheat supplies much of the roughage that the system demands. Use it; for it is not only healthful but really delicious. Soon

This Woman's Job is to try to ruin fine things

This New Way of Fadeless, Quicker Washing

A New Discovery That Ends Ruining Fine Things Even Under Most Frequent Washings—And Cuts Washing Time of Clothes and Dishes ONE-HALF or More

NEW light has been thrown on saving fine fabrics from ruin and fade, and fine china from dishpan wear, that often saves the average family hundreds of dollars yearly, and the housewife countless heartaches.

A fadeless way of heavy washing has been found. A way that makes any water (regardless how "hard" it may be) and ordinary household soap into a perfect NO-FADE cleanser.

Fine lingerie is washed 50 times or more—without noticeable fade. Expensive hosiery saved from fade and wear almost unbelievably. And results proved before this new way goes to you.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a tablespoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as Rain-Water. So soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the soap you use now. And thus ends danger of "soap eat" to fragile things.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime. And thus cuts washing time, too—in machine or on board—ONE-HALF or more.

Use any kind of soap or soap flakes—the same soap you ordinarily do. Some 2 million women now are using it—for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things: lingerie and delicate fabrics. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

We wash delicate lingerie, often 50 times—without perceptible fade. Children's rompers, 60 to 90 times. That's over a year's home washing. We wash gold-encrusted china hundreds of times—without a trace of gold gone. And thus prove the blandness of this way.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put Climalene into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft and smoothly white. Then try it.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it in 10c and 25c packages.

BRAN MUFFINS—Mix 1 cup bran, 1 cup whole wheat flour, 3 tablespoons molasses, 1 tablespoon baking powder and a cup of sweet milk. Bake for 20 or 25 minutes.

WHOLE-WHEAT GRIDDLE CAKES—Mix 2½ cups whole-wheat flour with 2 teaspoons baking powder. Stir in 2½ cups milk, then 1 teaspoon molasses. The molasses isn't necessary but it adds to the flavor and makes the cake brown more quickly. Now add eggs, well beaten, then mix well and bake on a hot, well-greased griddle.

WHOLE-WHEAT FRUIT MUFFINS—Cream a cup of brown sugar and 1 cup butter. Add 4 well beaten eggs, then a cup of chopped raisins and dates, 4 teaspoons baking powder and 4 cups whole-wheat flour. Add 1½ cups milk. Bake in muffin tins for 35 minutes. Have oven very hot for first five minutes, then moderate the heat.

HERE is a recipe for a Meatless Loaf, which is heartily recommended to those who are on a strictly meatless diet:

Melt two tablespoons of butter and mix with three cups of whole wheat bread crumbs. Put a large bunch of soup greens—consisting of onions, carrots, celery and parsley—through the medium blade of the grinder, together with a cup of English walnuts. Add these to the crumbs and then add a level teaspoon of poultry seasoning, a teaspoon of salt and a third teaspoon of pepper.

Mix well, and form into a loaf. Bake in a moderate oven 1½ hours, basting frequently with a cup of hot water, to which you have added a tablespoon of butter and a teaspoon of seasoning. Serve with a thickened gravy. Mashed potatoes and cranberry sauce are particularly nice to accompany this meatless loaf.

Another dish that is most appetizing and which conforms beautifully to the meatless regimen is a

ROAST LAMB CROQUETS—Make a thick sauce of ¼ cup butter, a pint of milk, ½ cup flour, ⅓ teaspoon white pepper and a teaspoon of celery salt. Season 3½ cups of the chopped lamb, and add to the white sauce, then lay aside to cool. When cool, mix and shape into croquettes; then roll them in fine bread crumbs, dip in beaten egg, then roll again in the bread crumbs, and fry in deep fat until a golden brown. Drain on paper and serve hot. If you like, add a few drops of onion juice to the white sauce, for its added flavor.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

These Icy Isabels!

ONCE the superior charm of the American girl over that of the European girl consisted in her pep, her spontaneity, her frank, responsive enthusiasm.

Her beauty was as the beauty of the bright rose of morning or the merry marigold beside the pallid charm of the languorous lilies of France or the cold orchid-like loveliness of English debutantes.

* * *

She was the sparkle, the color, the life of the party, wherever she went. Open-eyed, vivacious, insouciant, naive, she waked 'em UP! At sight of her men's eyes lighted, their formality relaxed and their spirits rose.

HELEN ROWLAND

She was the spirit of gayety, youth, vivacity and ingenuous joy. Her bouyancy and animation were positively infectious. She went to the head like wine!

* * *

But now she has become a SOPHISTICATE! Oh, di mi, yes!

If anything could give her a kick or a thrill she would DIE before she would let you know it!

Her once ready laugh has shrunken to a painted, constrained little smile of boredom or tolerance. The wide-open baby-stare, that once went straight to every man's heart, has given place to the drooping lid and the cold, appraising glance. She is as responsive and exciting as a pet goldfish!

* * *

And you must admit that while a pet goldfish is pretty and decorative, it doesn't exactly warm the heart or stir the imagination. It would never cause a man to lie awake nights and dream rose-colored dreams.

* * *

Nothing so BORES a man as a dull-eyed, bored woman! Nothing so chills him as a cynical outlook and a languid air of discontent. Nothing so depresses him as a human wet blanket! Or a stuffed doll!

WHY can a woman never be natural? Why must she always have a POSE? Once we were all "nice Nellies" wrapped in Victorian cotton-batting. Then we became "peppy petters" and "jazzy Jessies." Now we pretend to be icy Isabels and spend our lives living up to our Oriental earrings and long, exotic cigarette holders. But surely we don't do it in order to be attractive to men!

* * *

Because what a man loves in any women is warmth and piquancy and emotional appeal. And a stuffed doll has no emotional appeal!

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Mystery of Checking Account Engages the Bright Minds.

"IMAGINE you're doing some plain and fancy jumping at conclusions, yourself," Dicky muttered when I had put the paper containing his tallies from Mary's check book in my purse. "But that can wait. Do you remember that jog in the front stairway with the opening into which Junior used to cram his toys?"

"Oh, yes," I assented, seeing his plan for restoring his niece's belongings.

"Well, that's where these are going," he said. "You keep her outside on some pretense until I can dash in and drop 'em down there. Then later I can suggest that they might have dropped there."

"Suppose Katie already has looked there," I said.

"I'll bet anything you like, three to one, that Katie hasn't," he said. "I was very careful to make it appear that the package didn't amount to much, that it probably was dropped in the hall, or more probably never was taken from the bedroom. Katie isn't so anxious for extra work. Now slip that magazine over in front of Lil and ask her if the lines in that illustration of mine aren't nifty. That'll give an air of verisimilitude, as the word-eaters say, to our little chat, and I'll throw some observations toward the front seat."

I was glad indeed to follow his instructions. Though both of us are experienced in almost inaudible talking, and though there had been no indication from the front seat that anyone was paying the slightest attention to us, yet I had been nervously fearful through every second of Dicky's monologue—my part in the conversation had been limited to a dozen words.

"Look at this, Lillian," I said, spreading the magazine open to the drawing of Dicky's, which he had been holding before me. "I think my husband quite fancies the lines of this, and he wants your opinion."

"That's some tangerine," she pronounced with enthusiasm, adding under her breath, "when we get home."

I nodded, with a trace of irritation that she should have thought I needed the warning to refrain from any mention of Mary. After the strain of the last few minutes, with my constant expectation of having Dicky's young niece discover her uncle's colloquy with me over her bank and check books, I was more than willing to keep all conversation of a strictly innocuous level for the rest of the drive home. I gave the magazine over to Lillian and settled deeper into my seat with the sensible resolution to forget all vexing problems in the enjoyment of the long drive.

"Some boat, isn't it, girls?" Dicky was asking, and both Mary and Marion turned their heads toward him, in brightly nodding assent, Mary adding an emphatic, "We'll inform the slant-eyed universe it's a wow." Her eyes and voice were clear of anything but pleasure, and I knew that Dicky shared my relief. If he could get the books into the recess in the stairway without being seen Mary never would have to know that we had found them, unless indeed, later developments should make it necessary for us to take her to task about them.

I refused to consider that contingency, however, and gave myself up to the joy of watching the colorful panorama of city streets merge into the wider boulevards of the suburbs, and anticipating the pleasure of traveling the long stretches of winding, tree-lined roads almost as smooth as the proverbial billiard table, which lay between us and home.

Behind the wheel, Harry Underwood drove beautifully, without any apparent effort, yet he did not speak or move his eyes from the jamming traffic which surrounded us on our way to the bridge and over it. But when we were well on the double boulevard, he threw a glance back at his wife.

"Well! old girl, what's your verdict on the way the lady behaves in traffic?" he asked.

There was loving comradeship invested with a touch of appeal in his voice, and involuntarily I glanced at Marion. How would she react to this expression of her stepfather's feeling for her mother?

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Serving at Dinner

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. At dinner, when the host serves, is it good form for the hostess to sit at his right and help him serve the vegetables?

2. Should the guest at the hostess's right be served first, or should she pass the plate on down to the end?

3. Upon being excused from the table, who answers "Certainly," the host and hostess only, or the persons sitting next to the one who wishes to be excused?

MRS. C. R. B.

IF there is a small group of people it is better for the hostess to sit at the head of the table, and the host at the foot. Then it is usually convenient for them to plan to have the host carve and serve the meat, then pass the plate for the hostess to add the service of vegetables. The plate is then passed to the guest, who is definitely "nominated" by some such words as these: "This is for Mrs. Moore," or "Won't you please keep this, Mary?"

This kind of service also releases the seat at the right of the host, where should be seated the woman guest of honor.

3. The person wishing to leave the table asks permission of the hostess only, and she signifies her answer.

Remove Your Hat

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When attending the theater should one remove one's hat?

2. Should one remove one's scarf when removing a coat at the theater?

M. M. B.

YES! Yes, ma'am! And if we don't, I hope that the person sitting behind us quickly asks us to! Only a very selfish-minded woman keeps on her hat in a theater.

2. This is entirely as you wish.

Widow's Signature

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I am a recent widow and in doubt as to how I should sign my name. Should it be Mrs. Alice Scott or Mrs. John Scott?

2. How should it be on my cards and in the directory.

A. S.

AS a widow you sign your name exactly as you did when your husband was living. A business letter or a letter to a person who is to be informed of your formal name, you sign like this:

Very truly yours,
Alice Scott.
(Or Alice Miller Scott.)
(Mrs. John Scott.)

Your social letters are signed, as they always have been, Alice, or Alice Scott, according to the degree of friendship you have with the person to whom you are writing.

2. Your visiting cards should read: Mrs. John Scott, and this too should be the form for the telephone directory.

Yesterday's Girls -:- By Madge Geyer

OH WHERE are the girls of yesterday
With their puffs and frills and curls?
With their soft pretty laces
And doll baby faces
And airs and graces and swirls?

Who cares? Not for mine would I turn to the time
When girls were for ornament purely;
I'll take bobbed heads and freedom
And be darned glad to lead 'em
To th' altar—where they go most demurely!

For the Lovelorn -:- By ELEANOR GALE

Lonesome

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am writing you for some advice. I am very much in love with a boy in Pittsburgh. I met him when he was visiting with friends in my home town. I have known him for over a year and soon after we had known each other we made several promises. I have kept all of mine. But, Miss Gale, he has broken all of his, breaking my heart along with them. I heard he was drinking now, something he never did before, and he promised he never would. He wrote to me several times and I answered all of his letters, but now he refuses to write me. He has my picture and won't even send it back and I won't ask him any more, but I would like to have it. Miss Gale, please tell me how to regain his attention and affections, because at one time we were both sincerely in love. Waiting for your advice, I am

LONESOME.

My dear, I wish I could tell you how to win his affections again, but I cannot. If he refuses to write and keeps none of his promises to you, then he cannot care for you, and there is nothing to do but accept that fact.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Dysentery May Be Spread in Winter

WE are likely to associate certain diseases with particular seasons of the year. For instance, influenza, in the popular mind, is a disease of cold weather. As a matter of fact it is not. Weather conditions have almost nothing to do with it.

DR. COPELAND

I think I should modify that last statement just a little. Anything that depresses vitality is bad for health. Cold and damp have their effect, of course. But so far as the community progress of the disease is concerned, it will sweep onward in cool weather or hot.

Dysentery is a disease popularly supposed to be a hot weather ailment. Of course, diarrhoeas due to food contamination are more common in hot weather when the germs more readily multiply. But one of the true dysenteries may be met at any season of the year.

In olden times they used to talk about the "bloody flux." Whole armies suffered from it.

That name was given because the bowel discharges were mixtures of mucus and blood. The waste material actually took the form of a bloody flux.

When they speak of true dysentery, the doctors have two forms in mind. One is the "bacillary dysentery." The other is known to the profession as "amoebic dysentery."

Both these dysenteries are associated with diet. In this respect they resemble the more common diarrhoeas. But instead of being the result of ordinary food poisoning, as are the latter, each can be traced to a particular germ or parasitic organism.

These agents get into the system through the taking of food or drink. Almost invariably they can be traced to human carriers. Their intestinal discharges are carried into the water supply, or reach the food by the assistance of soiled fingers. Watercress and other salad materials may be contaminated by these discharges.

Not long ago I talked with a young woman who has chronic amoebic dysentery. She complained about her doctor because he "punched her in the side" every time she met him.

Inflammation or abcess of the liver is a complication of this disease. Tenderness over that organ is one of its first signs. The doctor pressed over the liver to see if it was all right.

Bacillary and amoebic dysenteries are difficult to treat. A great deal of research work is being done to find a means of control. The United States government, too, is at work upon the problem.

Vaccines have been prepared, which have some effect upon the bacillary form. The amoebic form is more puzzling. After a while, a less disturbing manner of treatment will be found.

Building up the general system is important for the victim. His education against spreading the virus of dysentery must be undertaken at once. Otherwise, more of the disease producing organisms will be spread abroad.

Any disease which may be carried to others is a dangerous ailment. For the sake of family and friends, as well as the general public, the victim should take every precaution not to spread the seeds of trouble.

Answers to Health Queries

T. T. Q.—Is it dangerous for a person to eat meat and drink milk at the same meal?

A.—No.

J. C. Q.—Will the removal of diseased tonsils restore or improve the hearing?

A.—Yes, in some instances.

Horoscope

Saturday, February 2

CONFLICTING conditions are forecast from the planetary rulership of this day. While labor, industry and fidelity to the interests of elderly persons and institutions may expect their due reward yet a certain tendency to a vacillating mood and to irresponsible speeches or writings may undermine the prophesied good. With good control, honesty, shunning sudden change and with resolution there are worth-while benefits to be reaped.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of opportunities and benefits to be gleaned through hard labor, diligence and fidelity to the interests of elderly persons and institutions. But a tendency to loose speech, vacillating moods and hasty change may bring penalties and ill fortune.

A child born on this day, although being inclined to be industrious and steadfast in many respects, may also be inclined to be careless with its speech and integrity unless well disciplined.

When we cry out against Fate
'twere well we should remember
Fortune can take nought but what she gave.—Byron.

A DAINTY FROCK FOR A LITTLE GIRL.

For dance or party this model is lovely in taffeta or in crepe de chine. Chiffon and tulle are also attractive. As pictured, taffeta was chosen, with tiny plaitings of the material for trimming. Printed georgette or chiffon is also suggested. The sleeveless waist is joined to the skirt, which boasts of an uneven hem line, and is gathered over the hips. The bertha may be omitted and the shoulders trimmed with ribbon bows, with long loops and ends.

The pattern for this quaint little dress is cut in four sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size will require 2⅛ yards of 32-inch material. To trim as illustrated will require 3½ yards of plaiting. For a sash of ribbon three yards is required.

Our Daily Short Story

ACQUITTAL HENRY

By WILLIAM ALLEN WARD

WHEN Henry Oliver left the state university an influential friend exercised enough pull to get him a job as an assistant in the district attorney's office. Henry was assigned to represent the state in minor cases coming before the justice of the peace. He also handled preliminary hearings in the lower courts, and sometimes presented testimony to the grand jury.

After one year's service as an assistant district attorney, Henry Oliver found that he still had a job and a name—they called him Aquittal Henry! It was said about the office of the district attorney that he had lost more cases for the state than any other assistant in the history of the county. No matter how vigorously he prosecuted a case, the state lost.

Other assistants kidded Henry. But William Cowan, the district attorney, found no fault with him. Instead, Cowan seemed perfectly satisfied. At least there was no kick and Henry held his job.

"Well, Aquittal, anybody turned loose today?" was the familiar greeting Henry received from the other assistants.

At length, Henry grew melancholy. He tired of the constant digs and caustic remarks directed at him by the other members of the staff. He determined to resign. To Henry Oliver, life was just one asquittal after another. He was the most discouraged of men. He brooded for a full day, and then carefully prepared his letter of resignation.

The next morning Henry arrived at the District Attorney's office a full half hour earlier than customary. He was anxious to receive his pay check and get the entire matter of his resignation settled.

After the usual preliminaries, the district attorney got down to facts. He twisted his black cigar from one side of his mouth to the other. Then he asked, "what's the idea of leaving me?"

Henry was stricken with amazement. He could not speak for a moment. Finally he succeeded in stammering, "I'm a failure, a flat failure—can't get a conviction—they call me 'Acquittal Henry'—I must be terrible for a prosecuting attorney."

For a moment the district attorney was silent. Then he smiled and said: "Would a $50-a-month raise interest you in remaining on my staff?"

Acquittal Harry almost collapsed from astonishment. He readily agreed to remain.

"But why am I so valuable?" he asked with great eagerness. "My record is one of acquittals—only three or four convictions in a year!"

"That's the reason you are valuable to me," replied the district attorney. "You have saved me many times—I want one assistant district attorney who is sure to get an acquittal—you must remember that there are cases where a man must be tried to satisfy a certain click who demand the defendant's scalp. The victim should not be convicted, yet to satisfy the wolves, I must try him. An acquittal in such a case is what the state wants—and you are the man to fill the bill—Acquittal Henry, you are an answer to one of my most earnest prayers. Keep up the good work."

An hour later Acquittal Henry

entered a justice court to prosecute the son of a wealthy merchant. The youth was charged with driving an automobile while he was intoxicated.

Henry entered the case with renewed vigor. He was full of pep and determined to show the world that he was a rising young attorney. Henry's speech to the jury was a masterpiece of eloquence. The jury was out less than five minutes before they returned a verdict of guilty.

"Want to see you in my office," said the District Attorney as Henry left the court room.

"Another raise, maybe," thought Henry.

"You are fired," said the District Attorney in a tone that was more than a growl. "You are fired—understand."

"Why," demanded the startled Henry.

"You ought to be able to figure that out," retorted the District Attorney. "Didn' I explain this morning that your work as an acquittal attorney was satisfactory?"

Four Years of Illness Ended by New Konjola

Kidney and Liver Troubles That Had Resisted All Else Yield to Modern Medicine.

Scores of those who have suffered long and have failed to find relief are visiting the Konjola Man, who is at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., this city, where he is explaining daily the merits of Konjola, the master medicine for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola comes backed by a remarkable record of recoveries in cases of years' standing; the new remedy is a medicine of achievement, not mere promises. The speed and thoroughness with which this master remedy goes to the very seat of the ailments is strikingly illustrated in thousands upon thousands of happy indorsements from those to whom Konjola has brought glorious health after hope had been abandoned. Among these grateful statements is one from Mrs. Laura Fulton, 110½ North Liberty street, New Castle, Pa., who, radiant with newly recovered health, says:

"What a blessing...and a surprise...this wonderful Konjola was to me! For four years I suffered torments with liver and kidney trouble. I tried simply everything, and not a thing helped me. I grew worse steadily, and became so seriously afflicted that my limbs swelled to twice their normal size. A most irritating rash broke out all over my body, and headaches were so severe that I felt that my head would burst. I lost weight and energy; certainly I had no ambition, and my housework was a task. My sleep was broken and my appetite poor, so I had no chance to pick up any strength. At a time when I had about lost hope of ever being helped, Konjola was recommended to me by a number of people who had personal knowledge of its success in most stubborn cases like mine.

"I had little faith in anything, having been disappointed so often, but I finally made up my mind to see if this new medicine was all that it was said to be. And what a delightful surprise was in store! The very first bottle brought so much relief that I was sure that, at last, I was on the right track; on the road to health. With the second bottle came complete freedom from all of my ailments. The rash almost disappeared, my head quit aching and my liver and kidneys are perfectly normal. And how I can eat! Sleep, too, is helping me back to my former strength and weight, and I am feeling so good that I can hardly believe I am the person who suffered so terribly for four years. My great regret is that I did not know Konjola sooner, but I am so happy to be well again that I am willing to forget my years of pain and misery. I make this statement with the hope it will be read by all who suffer as I did, and who, like myself, despair of being well again. Konjola is entitled to more praise than I have words to express. It is simply wonderful."

Thousands tell the same story of Konjola's marvelous merits. This modern medicine goes to the very seat of the disease, cleansing and stimulating the afflicted organs. It is logical to believe that what this master medicine has done for others it will do for you. To delay is merely to prolong your suffering.

The Konjola Man is at the McCulloch Drug Store, Penn Ave. and Sixth St., Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this remarkable remedy. Free samples given.

COOLIDGE'S DEDICATION OF CARILLON ON RADIO

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

HARK!

From down in Mountain Lake, Fla., listeners will hear a choir of 500 voices and a carillon of 62 bells this afternoon at 3:45 o'clock over WCAE. President Coollidge will speak. The occasion is the dedication of the Edward Bok Singing Tower and Carillon.

President Coolidge will be on the air for half an hour, beginning five minutes after the program opens, it was announced by NBC officials last night.

It is expected that the musical portion of the program will last half half an hour. The bells, imported from Europe and the heaviest weighing approximately 11 tons, are housed in a tower 200 feet above ground and may be heard from three to seven miles.

Tune in on this feature. It is something different—something that should appeal to every music lover.

LOCAL COMPOSER

Ralph Federer, Pittsburgh composer, will give a brief recital from KDKA at 7 o'clock. For this occasion he has selected compositions of Chopin, Strauss-Tausig and Mendelssohn.

Caroline Andrews will be featured in a song recital at 8 p. m., followed at 9:30 o'clock by the Philco Hour, offering musical comedy hits.

Thousands of tiny folks will be interested listeners tonight when Cousin Lora and Uncle Gimbee give a special anniversary program for the Gimbee family. Quite a multitude of features are scheduled and it appears to us that even grown-ups will find this stunt a very worthy diversion. Reams of copy might be written about Cousin Lora and Uncle Gimbee in their wonderful work, but space will not permit. These two individuals, who are idolized by 10,000 kiddies, have done the next best thing and written special stories for the Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Their stories will appear in the radio section.

SWEETHEART SONGS

Another stellar feature at WCAE tonight is the National Concert Bureau Hour at 10 o'clock, offering several noted radio stars.

From WJAS at 8:30 p. m., listeners will be entertained with Sweetheart songs of all descriptions. Mary and Bob's story at 9 o'clock looks interesting and we feel that many fans will enjoy the Choral Singers' rendition of "The Teacher and the Tack," at 10 p. m.

Von Suppe's overture, "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna," is the opening number of the Slumber Music at 11 o'clock, over WJZ, WLW, WRC, WTMJ, WHAS, WJAX. "Barcarolle," by Offenbach, is the closing selection.

Prof. Daniel R. Bergsmark, University of Cincinnati, will speak on "Countries of the Northern Andes" over WLW at 7 o'clock. Ted Weems and his orchestra will be heard at 10:30 and midnight, followed at 12:30 a. m. by the Gondolyrics in "Neapolitan Nights," "O Sole Mio," "Toreador Song" and "Angela Mia."

Juvenile entertainers, Victor Griffin, Dorothy Wentzel, the Magidson Twins, Philip and Sydney, Maurice Oldaker and Julia Miller will take part. LOUIE MISSES TUBA.

Gus and Louie, of the Schradertown Garage, which came into radio existence along with the Schradertown Brass Band of accomplished "plumbers, carpenters and haytossers," will be on the air tonight for their second chapter of home-town adventures.

The music-loving Louie, financial backer of the Schradertown Brass Band, will be very much in evidence, with his partner, Gus; but it will be the first rehearsal of the overall band in the town hall which Louie has missed.

Since the preceding week, when the sheriff made off with his beloved tuba, Louie has been on a hunger strike. Louie without his tuba is another Louie, and all Schradertown speeds to the rescue. How the "triplets" arrive, what the sheriff has to do with the band's new uniforms, and just what happens to leave the town in a state of musical exuberance for another week will be told in full as the program develops.

10:00 P. M.—National Concert Bureau.

WHO'S GUILTY ????

CAN YOU SOLVE THIS DETECTIVE STORY?

The Gentleman Who Killed

By Evelyn Johnson and Gretta Palmer

"RAISE it a dollar."

"Two."

"I call," said Hilary Vance, and laid down a hand aristocratically composed of aces and kings.

He swept the chips towards him and rose with every sign of departure. The usual wailings of the losers were lost on his ears.

"It's 4 o'clock and I have none of your reluctance to go home to an injured and angry spouse," said Vance, as he cheerfully cashed in his chips.

When he arrived home, however, he found that his apartment had none of the musty peace that usually brooded over his solitary chambers. There was a woman there and she was more agitated than the aloof Hilary ever liked to see any human being. The young man was forced to listen to an hour-long account of his sister's marital sufferings.

"Oh, Hilary," she sobbed, "I can't leave John no matter what he does. I love him so terribly. But sometimes when he's been drunk for a week I get so upset I say things I shouldn't. And recently he's taken to calling me the most horrible names—"

Vance greeted an account of his sister's sufferings with a grim if sympathetic silence. His brother-in-law, he knew, was a dispicable bounder of the type who fires all women in his emotional radius with a desire to lead him gently up the paths of reformation. His sister Claire had been reduced to an hysterical bundle of nerves by her four years of married unhappiness without moving John an inch from his attitude of serene depravity. As long as she remained undiscouraged over the prospect of ultimately making John into a sober body who liked his meals at regular hours, there was very little one could do. But Hilary Vance was a resourceful young man. Claire had no intimate friends left in Philadelphia, as they had all, with misguided eagerness, attempted at some time or other to convince her of the impossibility of reclaiming John. Her social life had finally been restricted to her husband, who rarely spoke to her when sober, and her brother Hilary. In all his 25 years of life Hilary had never given anyone a gratuitous piece of advice and his circle of friends, as a consequence, was wide and adoring. But Claire, he felt, needed softer ministrations than his own icy common-sense could offer, and he bundled her up in his car with two sleeping powders as a follow-up measure to the brandy he had forced on her at his apartment. He drove her to the convent hospital where she had gone to school, and left her in the care of the nuns with instructions that she should be allowed to sleep until late afternoon and that when she awoke he should be notified at his office. Then he turned his swift car in the direction of New York and the peccant John.

AS he drove through the night air, his mind was still functioning with the precision of the poker-table. He could read his sister's mind perfectly—she was both articulate and sincere and no change in her point of view could be brought about by anything anyone could do or say. And she was pitifully unhappy and baffled in her silly attempt to reclaim the imperturbable John. Vance then turned his mind to his brother-in-law. McManus had singularly few vulnerable points for one of his type and the problem of his unostentatious removal from Claire's range of emotional vision presented many difficulties. McManus was the possessor of a large fortune which his father had presciently left in trust so that his extravagances, though notable, could never reduce his capital. The folly of attempting bribery with a man who was receiving the income, at monthly intervals, from an estate of a million dollars was apparent.

The chances of his being in a state of even approximate sobriety were slight and Hilary was well aware of the folly of converting a drunken man to any course of action when he will awaken a few hours later with no memory of the promise. He might be shanghaied, but Vance doubted if he had the necessary naval connections for the coup, which might be costly if McManus awoke on an outgoing steamer and raised trouble with the authorities. Anyway, in this day of rapid and convenient travel he would be back inside of a month.

"Well," said Vance, slowing down as he saw a motor cop, "if Claire had had the decency to be born in the time of the Borgias the problem would have been purely dietary."

WHEN he reached the city, Vance kept to the side streets and was able to make his way downtown without any disagreeable encounters. He parked his car at Fourteenth street and sauntered down University Place to the Lafayette, encountering only the top-heavy, horse-drawn trucks that abound in that neighborhood in the morning hours, when the inhabitants are just enough awake to wish for a drink. The Lafayette Cafe was empty, except for a sleepy-looking waiter who took Vance's request for brioche and coffee with the bored comprehension of his kind. Hilary relapsed behind a morning newspaper and found the lead stories to concern a kangaroo that had given birth to twins in the Bronx Zoo, a political speech indistinguishable in all ways from the one that had occupied the same space the day before, and the fact that a blond youth, 19, suffering from amnesia, had been claimed by four families.

Vance thoughtfully paid his check, bought a package of cigarets, pocketed the eleemosynary matches and walked out, bearing with him the blessing showered by grateful waiters on those who combine the knowledge of when to pronounce the f. of an oeuf with sound American ideas of tipping.

When Vance rang the bell of McManus' Washington Square apartment he realized that it might be fortunate for him that the house was a large one, with many residents, and that no one was likely to remember his arrival. He did not really anticipate anything more than the vapid exchange of nasty remarks usual in such a parley, but perhaps—and to this he really looked forward—he might have an opportunity to dirty up his brother-in-law's good-looking face.

THE bell was answered by McManus, who looked out suspiciously. Vance wondered if the police precaution of inserting his foot in the door was going to be necessary. McManus grumbled, "Hell of an hour to get a man out of bed," and grudgingly let Hilary pass. The room was in a state of disorder, which suggested that the maid who came in by the day would be in a fine rage when she arrived. There were soiled glasses, cigaret stubs on the floor and half-drunk glasses of whisky. A stale smell of smoke hung over the living room. McManus tipsily struggled into a dressing gown and poured himself out a drink. Vance was accustomed to McManus' discourtesy. He walked over to the mantelpiece and poured himself a drink of whisky from the carafe. He drained it, making a mental note of the fact that at least McManus' whisky was good. He put the glass back on the mantel and watched with pleasure the contortions that McManus made as he swallowed his drink.

"Pretty shaky this morning, aren't you, John?"

"And what business of yours is it if I am?" asked John, lurching toward him. "I don't know why you're here but I want to tell you that your stiff-necked family have been a lot too curious about my affairs. If it's about Claire, I wish you'd take her off to Philadelphia and keep her there. The way that woman—"

Vance was on his feet and over McManus in a second. As the drunken man doubled up his fists for the attack, Vance led off with his right hand and delivered a powerful blow to the chin of his brother-in-law. It was a single blow but it served its purpose more forcefully than Hilary had dreamed, for McManus staggered back towards the grate, hitting his head on the stone mantle, and with a single gurgling cry fell to the floor. It did not take a coroner to tell that John was dead.

VANCE was startled into lightning calculations. He must get away quickly, leaving no trace. He looked down at his gloves—good. There would be no fingerprints. If he could return to Philadelphia without being recognized there was no reason why suspicion should fall on him, though it was a nasty situation to find yourself in. If he had had a chance to do the thing with proper premeditation, it would be far simpler. Vance ransacked the apartment for valuables, and removed them. He walked to Sheridan Square, his hat pulled well over his eyes, and entered the subway. When he reached the Pennsylvania Station he was able to slide into the back seat of a day-coach and slink down behind a newspaper before any one in the car had shown the slightest consciousness of his presence.

On arriving in Radnor, Pa., he walked to his home, which was near the station, and left five minutes later, being careful to rumple his bed, shave and change his clothes. No one, he was reasonably sure, had seen him let himself in, but when he went out he made some excuse to speak to the janitor and to leave instructions for admitting the cleaning woman who would come later in the afternoon. He also reported the fact that his car was missing from the garage. When Hilary arrived at his office around 2 o'clock the staff shook their heads over a young man's dissipations and his office mate suggested that they go out for a little bracer. Vance was not slow to accept.

WHEN the police arrived at the McManus apartment, in reply to the frenzied telephone call of the charwoman, they found a case which seemed to them a simple matter of robbery, with the murder of the owner probably an unforeseen necessity. Drawers had been emptied and a jewel case was gaping vacantly. There were no signs of entry, but the front door was open and might have been that way all night, as the guests who had shared McManus' party the night before confessed that, to the belief of their somewhat unreliable memories, he had been very intoxicated when they left.

There were, however, a few significant facts which had escaped the observation of the sergeant in charge of the case but which made the chief inspector, when he arrived, rub his hands hopefully. The doors between the living room, in which the murder had evidently been committed, and the bedroom were the old-fashioned, double-door type of which either half can be opened separately. The right side in this case was closed, the left stood ajar; on the handle of the open door there was not the vestige of a finger-print, but the other door-handle was plentifully covered with prints which were identified, from the corps, as belonging to McManus, and some others which turned out to be those of the charwoman. On the bedroom side the fingerprints were distributed between the handles of both doors.

On the mantelpiece there stood a carafe, half full of whisky, which attracted the attention of the inspector for several reasons. For one thing it smelt like excellent rye, but that worthy official had long made it his rigid practice never to drink the exhibits. Its position intrigued the keen-witted inspector even more. He handed it over to the fingerprint experts, who reported only that McManus had fingered it often since it was washed.

"WITHOUT the evidence on the door-handles," said the inspector mysteriously, "the carafe might not signify much. As it is, however, it narrows down the chase considerably."

His aides registered the appropriate awe which was, in this case, perfectly sincere, and set about their routine work. The missing jewels were found, wrapped in an Italian newspaper, on a subway car at West One Hundred and Eighty-first street, around noon.

Mrs. McManus was located and told of the catastrophe. She arrived in a bad state of prostration the next day, being driven down in her brother's car. This car had been reported stolen the day before and had been found in New York, not far from the scene of the crime. It was the belief of the sergeant that there might be some connection, and so Hilary Vance was questioned by the inspector.

"When did you miss your car, Mr. Vance?"

"When I went to the garage adjoining my apartment yesterday morning and found that it was gone."

"This is a private garage, used only by you?"

"Yes, but it is usually left unlocked."

"Where were you on the night of the crime?"

"I was playing poker at my club until around four. Then I came home and found Mrs. McManus at my apartment. She had been admitted by the maid at about 9 o'clock, but the maid had later gone home. I stayed with her for an hour, took her to St. Mary's Convent for the night, and then went home and to bed."

"About what time would you say you went home, Mr. Vance?"

"Around 5:30 o'clock."

"You put the car away at that hour?"

"Yes."

"When were you last in New York?"

"Eight months ago."

HILARY was conscious that his alibi was absolutely unsupported. If he could keep the police from connecting him with the crime, however, they were not likely to search out any of the witnesses who might have seen him between the hours of five-thirty and two. There was only one point on which he was nervous. Ah, here it came.

"Mr. Vance," said the Inspector suddenly, "Will you give me a light?"

Hilary glanced down at his shoe laces with satisfaction. He cheerfully withdrew a packet of matches from his coat pocket and struck a match for the Inspector.

"All right, Mr. Vance, thank you. I think you can go now—"

But the wind had blown out the light and the Inspector reached over to take the matches himself. As he did so his expression changed.

"Mr. Vance," he said, laying his hand heavily on the young man's shoulder, "we shall have to hold you. I have two grave reasons for connecting you with the crime."

What were the Inspector's reasons?

What did the clews in the murdered man's apartment indicate?

Solution of Yesterday's Baffling Mystery Story: "The Escape"

AS the Warden had surmised, Get-Away had hidden a file in the sole of his shoe. When he was supposedly reading the papers, he was engaged in filing one of the bars from his window at all moments when the guard was at the other end of the corridor. When he had finally wrenched one bar loose, he called Henderson and asked him to come close to the door of the cell and read an item in the paper through the bars. While the guard's head was bent over, Sam hit him with the iron bar, killing him. He reached through the bars, removed the keys from Henderson's body, brought the guard into the cell and arranged him on his bed in a sleeping position. He then hung the newspaper rope from the window to put the police on the wrong track. He let himself out, locking the door after him, and stole down the corridor to the dumb waiter. He hid at the bottom of the shaft for three days, making nocturnal pilgrimages to the kitchen for food, and waiting for a chance to escape from the jail.

Try to Solve Mystery; Prize Story Tomorrow

HERE'S the BIG IDEA! Each day the Sun-Telegraph will print a mystery story. Each story has a plausible and more or less exact solution which may be worked out from the situations and clues in the story. The authors have written a correct solution to each mystery. Readers of the Sun-Telegraph who pride themselves on their analytical sense or detective ability should figure out their own solutions and match them with the correct solutions which will be printed on the day following the publication of each baffling mystery.

On SATURDAY in the Saturday editions of the Sun-Telegraph there will be printed an original story by the same authors, the solution of which is in a sealed envelope. The person or persons who solve or come closest to correctly solving the Saturday, or PRIZE STORY, will receive cash prizes as follows:

FIRST PRIZE.....$10
Three Prizes of $5 EACH for the next three.

Contestants for the PRIZE STORY AWARD will have from Saturday morning, the first publication of the PRIZE story, until the following THURSDAY night at 6 o'clock, to send in their solutions. Letters postmarked after that time cannot be accepted, as judges must be able to render their decision on the prize winners in time to make the following Saturday's editions, when the correct solution of the first PRIZE story is printed with a second PRIZE story for you folks to tackle. In giving your solutions you must write several lines telling why you reached your conclusions and justifying your deductions. The decision of the judges is final and without appeal. Put on your disguise and tin badge and see what happened in the mystery printed today. Prizes will be paid only on the Saturday Prize stories.

Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer — By John Held, Jr.

"My dear, I'm ALL-of-a-BIB-and-TUCKer at this point! ACtually, I'm WHIPPED down to a NUB because th' other day when DADdy and I were CASurally STROLLing the DECK we were PETrified by suddenly hearing this wild SHRIEK from aLOFT and looking VAGUEly UPward WHO should we discover PEERing forth from the CROW's nest effect but ARab—CAN you COPE with it? Well, ANYways, he came SHINning madly DOWN and asked for a SANDwich because apparently he'd been PERCHing up there placidly ever since the yacht SAILED, my dear, and said the CROWS had devoured his LUNCH or something—can you BEAR it? Well, ANYways, I NEARly had hysTERics because the MINute he laid EYES on Mr. WEALTHington he went SKIDding up to him and volunTEERED to go right to WORK swabbing DECKS and Mr. WEALTHington didn't have a CHANCE to bawl him OUT because the odd soul started PLEADing for a MOP so's he could get RIGHT on the JOB! P. S.—He got the SWAB! I mean that's what DADdy said and everybody was FRIGHTfully aMUSED about it, but I ACtually think it's MORE fun than a barrel of MONKeys because the entire CREW of the YACHT is PRACticably composed of my old BEAUX at this point and I REALly think Mr. WEALTHington is sort of perTURBED about the situation because I mean I haven't let on that the snuggle-pups are no GOOSEflesh to ME because I think it's JUST as well to let MR. WEALTHington think he's got some compeTItion, my dear—I mean I ACtually DO!"

NANCY DEANE

CHAPTER XXIII.

WHEN the music of the orchestra struck up as a cue that the style promenade was to begin, Nancy didn't know how she was ever going to go through with her ordeal. From the wings was visible a sea of faces, and somewhere in that audience, judging her, were Howard Wescott and Ziegelbaum.

She knew they were there, but she did not know John Blair was there also.

Upon Ziegelbaum depended many things, chiefly the chance for extra work so that she could make both ends meet in supporting the apartment she was going to have, which was going to mean such comfort for Mud and Darry. A release for them from all the hard times they had for so many, many years.

And upon Howard Wescott depended—

"Well, what did depend upon him?" Nancy thought. Her thoughts went whirling when she thought about him. She could only see his dark eyes that compelled her so—compelled against her very conscience it seemed.

John Blair—he just would come into her thoughts, too. If Howard Wescott's eyes were black and compelling, John Blair's were bluo and honest and kind.

Wescott had opposed her appearance as a model. Would John Blair have been against it too?

The time was drawing closer and closer for her cue. To step out on the stage was like plunging off a precipice.

Ginger, gowned in the tight fitting black velvet, with an exaggerated train, a sort of panel that hung from the shoulders, and caught at the waist line with rhinestone buckles, was as free from stage fright as Lenore Ulric at her three hundredth performance of "Lulu Belle."

"Scared, kid?"

"Scared! I'm petrified. Oh, Ginger, I can't. I can't go on."

The words were still on her lips when her cue came. The music struck up slowly, with a definite time beat. Someone gave Nancy a push. The footlights were glaring in her eyes.

"Remember not to dance to the music when you walk across the stage."

Was she dancing? Was she keeping time? Was she standing erect?

Nancy didn't know whether she was doing any of the things she had been coached to do. She only knew that when she appeared in her blue and silver gown that there was a prolonged "Oh—!" in the audience, along with a rustling.

She thought they were laughing at her. She had been told, too, not to fix her eyes on any person or group of persons, but to try to be unconscious of the audience.

She walked across the stage and back, then to the center and onto a runway that extended half way the length of the theater and over the heads of the people. Afterwards she hadn't the faintest recollection of how she got to the stage, or how she acted.

She only remembered that as soon as she stepped on the runway the audience began to applaud, to whistle. She heard a girl in the second row say, "Isn't she a darling," and "what a love of a dress," and then she knew that the audience was approving.

She became more confident, tilted her head a little bit more, did her best not "to dance," reached the end of the runway, kept the slow, swaying pace that the tempo demanded, even into the wings and off the stage.

How she had wanted to run those few last steps. To run and bury her head. She was hot and cold at the same time. There were little beads of perspiration on her forehead, her yellow hair was moist and curling about her temples.

The moment Nancy was off the stage there were loud clapping and whistling. They wanted her back, an encore, a thing unheard of in a style revue.

"Kiddo, you've made a hit!"

Ginger, not looking at all like herself, in the black velvet gown and with her hair plastered back, had her arms around Nancy.

Ginger pushed her into the wings again, and Nancy took the music cue, and stepped out to walk across the stage, to bow, and then to almost run off. She just couldn't help giving a hop, skip and jump at the close, an action so entirely natural that it made an even greater hit with the audience and they continued clapping.

Five minutes later Nancy was surrounded by Ziegelbaum, Howard Wescott, Jerry and half a dozen other men and women.

Ziegelbaum was as excited as any human being could be. His whole show was being a grand success, and when Nancy received such an avalanche of applause he glowed with pride with himself for having picked such a winner.

Howard Wescott grabbed Nancy's two hands.

"You were wonderful," he said, "the sweetest thing I ever saw on a stage, anywhere."

Violet La May and Maybelle Montague, resplendent in spangled gowns, had their eyes fixed on Howard Wescott. They knew him by sight, and they had seen him in cafes, at the theaters, but they had never been able to meet him.

Ever since they had discovered that Nancy was the girl Wescott and Vic Flemming had a row about in the roadhouse they had treated her with mild tolerance. But they still considered her a green kid, a mama's baby. Now that she had been showered with adoration from three men, Howard Wescott, millionaire, among them, was something beyond their understanding.

Maybell's lip curled.

"I'll nip that friendship if it's the last thing I ever do on earth," she sputtered to Violet.

Nancy couldn't help but hear and later, in the dressing room Maybelle resumed her attack, looking for all the world like a cat preparing to spring.

"So you're one of the little sneaks, eh?" she said to her victim; "one of those innocent little lambs that pussyfoots around guys like old Ziegelbaum, the kind that gets a 'guy like Howard Wescott to suppoprt you, eh?"

There was no limit to what she might have said if Ginger hadn't appeared.

In an instant the two of them were at each other's throats, a clawing, tearing pair, ripping the finery off of each other's backs. Ginger's tight fitting gown hampered her somewhat, and the train kept continually twisting about her feet, but the few blows and the numerous scratches she managed to inflict upon Maybelle before the screams of the girls brought Ziegelbaum running into the room, were enough to repay her for the insult to Nancy.

"Vat's happened!" Ziegelbaum yelled with eyes popping.

"She called me a filthy name, and hit me," Maybelle lied.

"You lie!" screamed Ginger. "I never said a word to her. I just hauled off and hit her and I'm sorry I didn't get in a few more before you stopped me. I'll tear her deceitful face off if she tries anything like that again. Know what she did? Know what she did, Mr. Ziegelbaum? She—"

Everyone in the room stood silent while Ginger recited the insult that Maybelle had thrown at Nancy.

"She even reflected on you, Mr. Ziegelbaum, and you, Mr. Wescott."

"It's a lie, a lie!" Maybelle screamed.

"Let's get out of here, the show's over," Wescott whispered in Nancy's ear, and while Ginger and Maybelle fought it out, she slipped out of the blue and silver dress, put the silver slippers in her bag and hurried out of the dressing rooms—and bumped right into John Blair.

"Whoa there!" John laughed. "Would you walk right over a fellow? Don't you know me?"

"John Blair! How in heaven's name—

"Why John, is it you?"

"Look again," John laughed. "Maybe you don't know me in my store clothes."

A sort of panic came over Nancy.

"John," she said. "Were you out front tonight? You weren't in the audience, were you? Say no!"

"I can't say no," he answered, "for that's where I was. Didn't you hear me clapping?"

All of a sudden Nancy felt weak.

"Come here," she said, "come over here. I want to talk to you." They found two rickety chairs out of sight of everyone.

"Where are we going?" John asked.

"Sit down," was Nancy's answer, "now tell me, how did you know I was going to be here. How did you get here?"

"Why, your father, Mr. O'Day told me. He said you had written a letter. I drove down. But say, why didn't you write me that you were going to do this?"

Nancy let out a little sigh of exasperation. Darry again. Darry O'Day, who just couldn't keep things to himself.

He reached out and took her hand, pulling her toward him.

"Nancy," he said, "would you just as soon not be a model any more. You looked like—well, you looked like a flower tonight in the blue dress. But Nancy, I— You know Nancy I want you to say that you'll become engaged to me, that you'll—

"I want you to marry me, Nancy, but I want you to take all the time you think necessary before you set a day. I don't even ask that you'll say positively that you will marry me. I'm not much of a love-maker, I guess. Always been sort of afraid of girls, but, Nancy, I'm not afraid of you. I'm just in love with you. I guess when a man actually finds the girl he wants to marry that he isn't afraid any more. May I kiss you?"

"John," she said. "I like you so much. You've been so sweet to me. Just sweet. And I—"

"Oh, John, when does a girl know when she's really in love?"

Nancy O'Day came out of the half darkness of the back stage, straight into the shaft of light that flooded out from the now nearly empty dressing rooms. She was leading John Blair by the hand.

"For cryin' out loud!" said Jerry.

"Nancy!" said Ginger.

"John Blair, how'd you get in here!" exclaimed Howard Wescott.

Ziegelbaum just puffed out his fat cheeks and stared, round-eyed.

She introduced John all around, and then let John explain the difficulty he had in finding the stage entrance, of the way he bumped into Nancy.

"Tell me about yourself," she heard Wescot say to John.

Nancy tried to think if she could marry John Blair.

An hour later Nancy and Howard Wescott were in his car leaving the lights of the city behind. John Blair was driving back to Washington.

"Well, little girl, you certainly have the faculty of starting rumpuses, innocent as you are," Howard said.

Nancy didn't answer him. She was thinking how true those words were.

How thankful she was for Ginger, and yet how trying Ginger was. When they had left the house that afternoon Nancy had hated Ginger for what she had done, for getting Howard Wescott into her room like she had. She wanted Nancy to half entice Wescott, to make him give her things. She wanted Nancy to "work him" because he was a rich man, and it was Ginger's creed that a girl should get all she could out of a man, giving as little as possible in return.

It was a funny creed that kept contradicting the good in Ginger. Then Ginger who would rise on an occasion like this, who could fight with her fists if necessary to protect another.

"Wouldn't have missed this for the "world," Wescott said when he let Nancy out of his car just at eleven thirty that night.

"Tomorrow I'll help you look for a better place to live, may I?" he asked.

CITY'S RISE IN PUBLIC LINKS GOLF

ANNOUNCEMENT by the United States Golf Association of a change in the personnel of the public links section of the National Executive Committee, whereby John Jay Burke, who has been a member of the body since it was organized, drops out and is replaced by Kenneth C. Witherow, his associate at Schenley Park, does not come in the nature of a surprise, for the reason that it was quite generally known among golfing men of the district that Burke was anxious to be relieved of his duties in this connection, and had tendered his resignation at the National Public Links tournament in Philadelphia last year. Official action on the resignation has been held in abeyance until this time.

John J. Burke.

Burke has done considerable yeoman service in the interest of public links golf, as the record of the local players in the national competition attests. Carl F. Kauffmann, of Homestead, a Schenley Links player, defended his national championship in 1928 and Pittsburgh, for the second year retained the Harding team trophy. In all of the years since the National Public Links tournament has been held, this city has been foremost among the contenders.

IN order to make this boom possible, Burke, who is city manager of the county parks, has had to devote considerable time gratis and spend no small sum each year in traveling. The drain finally has become too heavy and this explains his withdrawal.

It is significant that during the period that public links golfers of Pittsburgh and environs have been in the national spotlight, the club players, on the other hand, have slumped as dangerous contenders in the major competitors. Pittsburgh has had three national amateur golf champions, Eben Byers, W. C. Fownes, Jr., and Davy Herron. Herron was the last of the local talent to lead the pack. He won the laurels at his home club Oakmont, in 1919.

WHILE there isn't a very strong likelihood that any baseball league in the States will in the near future include regular jumps to the Hawaiian Islands in its schedule, or at least until rapid party travel by airplane becomes fashionable, the islanders are ripe for the diamond sport and for professional leagues of their own, according to President Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Nationals, who has just returned home from a vacation trip to that distant part of the map.

Sam Breadon.

"Baseball is booming over there, and I was astonished to find such an interest in the game," the Cardinal boss reports. Though I had half expected to see some signs of baseball activity among the Americans, I had not looked for anything like the situation that really exists.

"REGULARLY organized leagues were found in the islands—amateurs, of course, not only among the Americans, but among the natives, the Japs, the Filipinos and even the Portuguese. They play a snappy type of baseball, too. The pitchers have improved, and the batters take their toeholds, just like our own sluggers. The games are interesting, and well-attended. I saw considerable baseball everywhere I went. Seeing some big laguers on tour in 1912 and again about 1922 stimulated baseball all over the islands. The fans over there like to see the professionals in action and it will not surprise me if another tour is made in the near future. The islands certainly appear to be ripe for baseball."

JIMMY WILSON, Cardinal catcher, denies reports that he is a holdout. Far from balking, he is going South a week ahead of time. "My contract calls for a nice increase over last season's salary," Wilson said. "I haven't signed it yet, but I'm not a holdout.

"There has been a lot of talk about my wanting to be traded to another club, but that's the bunk. I like Billy Southworth and I want to do as much as I can to help him win the pennant in his first year season. I'll be catching more games for the Cards than in 1928."

LOCAL baseball fans find much encouragement in the report that Manager Donie Bush brought to the city yesterday about the condition of Pitcher Carmen Hill. The big hurler informed the Pirate skipper that he has entirely recovered from the physical ailments that handicapped him last season, and that he is confident of showing this year the same form he displayed in 1927.

Carmen Hill.

It will mean a whole lot to the Bucs if Hill is making the right guess about himself for 1929, as is shown by the contrast between his disappointing work of last season and the fine record he hung up in 1927, the first full season of his present Pirate engagement.

IN 1927, Hill ranked eighth among the National League pitchers in earned-run effectiveness with a mark of 3.24, and sixth in percentage of games won with a record of .667, turning in 22 victories against 11 defeats. He pitched 22 complete contests and a total of 278 innings. Last year, Carmen dropped to sixteenth position in effectiveness with an average of 3.53 earned runs per nine innings, and to ninth place in percentage of games won with a grade of .615, capturing 16 decisions and losing 10. He worked only 16 complete games and a total of only 237 innings. If he had won as many games last season as in the preceding race, the Rovers would have finished in third place, only one game behind the Giants and only three box scores behind the pennant-winning Cardinals

THOUGH published sketches of the life of Tom Cheek, America's oldest horseman, who died in Havana, Cuba, Tuesday at the age of 104, have named Virginia as his birthplace, information received from Waynesburg is to the effect that he was in reality a native of Wind Ridge, Greene County, in this state.

The famous racing figure was well-known in the western section of Greene County and had many friends there. As a young man he is said to have raced horses in that region, and during the last few years of his life he made frequent visits to Greene County, attending numerous fairs and race meetings there.

CHEEK's last appearance in tri-state territory was made in 1927, when a horse that he owned, and that was said to be 14 years

Strib-Sharkey Go To Stay at Miami

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Flamingo Park will be the scene of the Sharkey-Stribling fight on February 27, whether racing continues or not Jack Dempsey, promoter of the bout for the Madison Square Garden Corporation, has announced.

Dempsey previously had said that if racing was discontinued at Hialeah Park the Miami Jockey Club's plant, the promoters might consider moving the fight to a California city that had offered a $250,000 guarantee.

Amateur Icemen To Play Sunday

The Hornets, setting the pace in the West Penn Amateur Hockey League by the margin of one-half game, will meet the second-place Yellow Jackets in the feature game of an ice doubleheader at Duquesne Garden Sunday afternoon. DeMolay Alumni and Philadelphia Company skaters will provide the action in the other half of the twin bill, which is to be free to the public.

All of the six league clubs will be in action on the evening of Friday, February 8, when three games will be played at the Garden.

BURKE PRAISES WITHEROW IN STATEMENT

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

John Jay Burke, former executive committeeman of the U. S. G. A. public links section has issued a statement regarding his resignation and subsequent announcement of the appointment of Ken Witherow, who, among things not golfical, is also secretary of the Pittsburgh Chapter of the University of Pennsylvania Alumni Association, to his place.

It is notable that Burke was devoted to his place on the committee during his seven years in office. In that time he spent much money in prizes and the like. With him, it will be recalled, Henry Litchfield West, of Washington, D. C., another veteran and esteemed member of the group, resigned at Philadelphia last year.

WITHEROW ABLE

The public links committee this years faces some of the stiffest problems the U. S. G. A. has ever confronted—particularly that which marred the national championship last year in which Negro golfers were the center of controversy. Witherow, as this district's representative, is certainly fit and capable to hold up his end.

Burke's statement follows:

"Public links players of Western Pennsylvania, I am sure, will be pleased with the appointment, but he is peculiarly well fitted for the work.

"Owing to my duties as manager city office of the county parks, I will not be in position to give the time that I devoted to public links activities during the past seven years, during which time I was not only a member of the public links committee, but a member of the executive committee. Owing to my official obligations to the county and the further fact that the next national tournament will probably be held in St. Louis, I could not see my way clear to continue on this committee, and I tendered my resignation at Philadelphia last year.

NEW SYSTEM IS MISTAKE

"My resignation was not accepted at the time, and I consented to serve until the term of my appointment expired, meanwhile recommending Mr. Witherow as the man best fitted to carry on the activities of the committee in this section. He will have my hearty assistance at all times, and I am sure he will have the whole-hearted support of all those interested in this popular sport.

"Seven years of my personal devotion to the cause, during which time I have had the satisfaction of seeing Pittsburgh twice win the national championship and a like number of times win the intercity championship, is an achievement of which the city should be proud and of which I am personally more than gratified.

"The passing of the executive committee and the naming instead of a large general committee I think is a mistake. However, it may work out all right, although I am afraid such a committee is more or less unwieldy. The appointment of James D. Standish, former chairman of the public links committee, to a place on the committee will meet with popular approval. Jimmy Standish, I believe, is the most popular man in the U. S. G. A. organization."

Walter Hagen Files Suit for Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Walter Hagen, golf professional, whose earnings were tied up by attachment papers served on him recently in behalf of his wife, Mrs. Edna C. Hagen, filed suit for divorce here yesterday, charging desertion. The complaint declared that Hagan and his wife were married in New York, April 6, 1923, and separted March 5, 1927.

The attachment papers, served on Hagen, January 16, as he completed play in the Pasadena open golf tournament, alleged he had failed to abide by a New York court judgement on a property and alimony settlement made November 17, 1927; had failed to pay back alimony, and had failed to live up to an asserted agreement to pay his wife's debts prior to October 1, 1927.

GIZZY BOXES CARPENTIER TONIGHT

The fight-hungry fans of Pittsburgh will get another show tonight in the Moose Temple, Penn avenue, when Francis Flynn, the newest of the local promoters, stages the second show of his club, with Battling Gizzy, of Donora, meeting U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, in the 10-round main bout.

Popular prices of $1 and $2 will prevail, as for the first show, two weeks ago, which proved a sellout with Jackie Rodgers and Howard Mayberry furnishing the windup, and the advance sale of tickets presages another capacity crowd for the small arena, capable of seating less than 1,500 persons.

Gizzy, a sensation in Western Pennsylvania rings because of his cyclonic style, will be making his Pittsburgh debut. He already holds a decision over Carpentier, a much more experienced opponent, earned at Little Washington about six weeks ago. Cuddy DeMarco and Harry Felix originally were carded for the main event tonight, but Felix was stricken by influenza a few days ago and the promoter was fortunate in landing Gizzy and Carpentier to bridge the gap.

PRELIM CARD CHANGED

The semi-final will bring together Johnny Dunn, classy featherweight of New Kensington, and Joe Elrene, rugged mixer of the North Side.

Two of the three preliminaries were changed late yesterday when Promoter Flynn was informed that John Brucker, of the North Side, who had been slated to oppose Max Ziff, Luke Carney's Jewish light-heavyweight, was stricken with double pneumonia. Tom Walker has been booked to meet Ziff in Brucker's place in the second bout.

Paul Kesner, of Cumberland, and Sammy Paris, Jewish bantamweight of the Hill district, had been scheduled to fight the opener, but their bout was replaced with a 124-pound battle between Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, and Johnny Jones, of the North Side, when it was learned Kesner threw out a shoulder during a training session and had to call off his engagement. Haggerty and Jones are carded for six rounds in the curtain-raiser.

The first bout is scheduled for 8:30. The boxers will weigh in at Flynn's gym at 3 p. m.

Bud Taylor, former bantamweight champion, will box the winner of the Tony Canzoneri-Joey Sangor bout at Chicago next Wednesday night.

Benny Bass, who knocked out Red Chapman in the first round in Philadelphia last Monday night, boxes Eddie Anderson in St. Louis tonight. Con O'Kelly and Jim Maloney meet in a return bout in the Boston Madison Square Garden. Cuddy DeMarco battles Larry Brignolia at Erie and Ray Miller and Tommy Grogan meet in a return bout in Detroit, where Miller recently knocked out Grogan after being floored himself five times in the second round.

RISKO VS. SCHMELING

The big bout of the night, of course, is that between Johnny Risko and Max Schmeling, in Madison Square Garden, New York. Otto Von Porat and Jack Gagnon box the semi-final.

Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, former bantamweight champion, opposes Billy Kowalik in a 10-round bout in Buffalo tonight. Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, mixes with Phil McGraw at Waterbury, Conn.

Six bouts make up an amateur boxing card under the auspices of the Twenty-first Ward A. C. in St. Andrew's Lyceum, North Side, tonight.

Jackie Rodgers and Happy Atherton have been matched for the main bout at McKeesport next Thursday night. A wrestling match will be put on as an added attraction.

MANGANS PLAY GREENFIELD TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Two old rivals clash tonight in the only game scheduled in the second round of the Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League, the Mangans of the South Side invading McKees Rocks to meet the Greenfield quintet.

The Mangans, strengthened by the addition of Dovey Slutzsky, former Somerman star, made a strong finish in the first half of the P. & O. League race after getting off to a miserable start and are determined to make a bid for the second round title.

Greenfield has been coming along nicely since Chick Hood and Harry Taylor joined the squad and will present a strong front against the invaders. Greenfield and the Mangans have been rivals all season and indications are that a large crowd will see them in action tonight.

The Lyceum Rockets would like to hear from the Javor Club in regard to a game next Monday night. Call Sterling 0843-M.

Leo Mackey, John J. Freund, Jr., and Julius Levin have been named as the arbitration board of the Homestead District League for the second half of the season.

The Duquesne Lafayettes, champions of the Allegheny County League, have accepted an offer to represent Steubenville for four games in the Ohio city. The Lafayettes will meet the Cleveland Rosenblums in Steubenville on Wednesday, February 13.

Sunday is the deadline for new players in the Pittsburgh & Ohio Valley League. The registration lists will be closed at 6 o'clock.

Miami Pro Golf Final Play Today

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Stellar golf featured the advance of four professionals to the final of the Miami open best ball team tournament at the Miami Country Club.

Mike Brady, Mamoroneck, N. Y., and Eddie Williams, Cleveland, went to the final from the upper bracket by trimming Joe Turnesa and Hoe Mazziotti, both of Elmsford, N. Y., in a match that went 20 holes before it was decided.

Wide to Enroll At New Track School

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Although he holds the world's outdoor two-mile record, Edvin Wide, Sweden's famous Olympic runner, is going to a special school to learn more about track and field.

Wide said he plans to enroll in the unique coaching school devoted exclusively to instruction in track and field sports, which will be operated here June 3 to 29 under direction of Ernie Hjertberg, former coach of the Swedish and Dutch Olympic teams.

Wide's purpose is not so much to improve his performance in the middle distances as to learn to demonstrate and teach the other events to youngsters in the Swedish schools where he is an instructor.

PRICE, STIFEL IN FINAL

BELLE AIR, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Miss Fritzi Stifel, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Mrs. J. R. Price, Pittsburgh, won their way into the final round of the annual January women's golf tournament with easy victories over their opponents and will meet today for the title.

Miss Stifel, the medalist, disposed of Mrs. F. R. Palmer, of Erie, Pa., 6 and 5, while Mrs. Price prevented an all-Stifel final by eliminating Fritzi's mother, Mrs. E. R. Stifel, 5 and 4.

Mrs. Price twice has defeated Miss Stifel, while the West Virginia girl holds one decision over her opponent in today's round.

Nurmi Is Victor; Pickard Second

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Paavo Nurmi threaded his way through a field of 12 lesser runners last night to win a special two-mile handicap run from scratch in the fair time of 9 minutes 19 3-5 seconds. It was Nurmi's third start and third victory of his current American campaign.

Frederick Sturdy, of Yale, cleared 13 feet 7 inches to win an invitation pole vault. Victor Pickard, University of Pittsburgh athlete who vaulted for Canada in the Olympics, was second with 13 feet 4 inches.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Paavo Nurmi will run the first mile of his present American invasion at the Millrose A. A. games in Madison Square Garden, February 9. He has hesitated to try the one mile distance until he felt assured he would have at least an even chance of shaving the indoor mark of 4 minutes 12 seconds, which he and his old rival, Jole Ray, hold jointly.

The Goldenson Club of the South Side advanced to the top position in the Allegheny County League last night, when it defeated Duquesne Light's passers, 31 to 30, in a close, thrilling engagement in the South Side Market House. It was an uphill climb for the victors.

Duquesne Light was leading Goldenson, 18-12, when half-time was reached, and the contest was not decided until the closing seconds when Boots Klinzing registered a field goal to even matters and Eddie Siegel netted a foul goal for the winning point just before the final whistle blew.

In the other County League battle, the Enoch Rauhs handed the Duquesne Lafayettes their first setback of the second half. The game was played in Columbus Temple before a large crowd, and the final count was 43-40—another spectacular thriller. The champs held a 19-15 advantage at half-time, but they were overtaken in the closing stages. The lineups:

O'DOWD BEATS MAYBERRY

Midget Mike O'Dowd, of Louisville, showed such a willingness to fight that he handily scored a victory over Howard Mayberry, of Donora, in the 10-round main bout at McKeesport last night. Mayberry had the better of the first three rounds before O'Dowd got to work. Thereafter, the Midget had command of the situation. He floored Mayberry for a count of eight in the final round.

In the semi-final battle Buck McTiernan, former amateur welterweight titlist, won an easy victory over Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, in 6 rounds.

BELL DEAL DENIED

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A denial that Lester Bell, Boston Braves third baseman, would be sold to the Chicago Cubs, has been made by President-Manager Emil E. Fuchs.

LEONARD LIKELY TO PILOT PIRATES TOMORROW

By CARL W. SHATTO.

JUDGE EMIL FUCHS, president of the Boston Braves, who appointed himself to manage the club, has a rival in Benny Leonard, owner of Pittsburgh's entry in the National Hockey League.

For the last three days Odie Cleghorn, manager of the Pirates, has been confined to his home with a severe attack of grip and tonsilitis, and Charley Leonard, secretary of the club and brother of Benny, has been doing the managing as the Bucs worked out in preparation for their battle with the Montreal Maroons at Duquesne Garden tomorrow night.

Charley, Benny's right hand man, did not hesitate to assume the role of pilot when Cleghorn was stricken, but the managerial business probably will become somewhat complicated when the owner of the Bucs arrives tomorrow. Charley has received word that the former lightweight boxing king will be here for the fray, and to put it in Charley's own words, "If Benny wants to take over the managerial duties for this important game I will be glad to vacate the post, and if he wants me to help direct the team I will lend such assistance as I can."

BENNY LONG ON FIGHT

In the minds of ice fans acquainted with Benny and his love for the game there is little doubt but that the owner of the club will elect to take up the managerial reins. Benny may not be "up" on the fine points of hockey, but what he lacks in this respect he makes up for in spirit, enthusiasm and "fight," and he is certain to keep the Bucs "right" psychologically.

And while Benny and Charley are rehearsing their new act, there is no definite assurance that Cleghorn will not force his understudies onto the bench. Odie's condition was reported as somewhat improved today and it may be that he will be able to resume his duties as pilot in tomorrow night's joust with the rugged Canucks. While the chances of Cleghorn's being present are nothing more than a possibility, Benny and Charley Leonard and their skaters, all eager for his return, choose to interpret the possibility as a probability, and refuse to give up hope.

SEEK SERIES SPLIT

But regardless of who is at the helm, local fans can anticipate plenty of action when the Pirates and Maroons square off for their final meeting of the season. The Bucs, idle since last Saturday, are well rested for the fray, and the Maroons—well, there is plenty of wild battling every time big Nels Stewart and his mates appear here.

A victory will give the locals an even break with Montreal in the four-game season series, and enable them to cut down the gap which separates them from a money and play-off berth.

GLENNA COLLETT WINS

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Glenna Collett, of Providence, R. I., national women's champion, won her first round of match play from Mrs. J. D. Chapman, 2 and 1, in the women's Mid-South open golf tournament at the Pine Needles Country Club.

LINDSTROM SIGNS

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Freddie Lindstrom's signed contract has been received at the offices of the New York Giants, setting at rest rumors that the star third baseman was hesitating preparatory to asking for a revision in salary figures.

SLUMP NOTED IN MAJORS AVOIDABLE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Professional baseball is not and should not be slipping, despite the slump noted along some of the big-league highways last year. It is highly probable that the unfavorable fluctuation may have been natural enough; on the other hand the falling off in attendance figures may have been influenced by what seem to have been a number of avoidable developments.

SEVEN AILMENTS

The directors of the game did not invite these suggestions, which constitute a little diagnosis of troubles that might be hurting the sport, but if they care to admit them to their clinic, the advice is given without any idea of remuneration. The list of ailments follows:

Too-lively ball.
Fluke homers.
Lazy or ill-disciplined players.
Easy-going managers.
Owners without knowledge of game.
Careless umpiring.
Money-grasping athletes.
Swivel-chair innovations.

Perhaps some of the magnates would like to include the sports writers in the trouble list. You can't tell. Concerning the swivel-chair indictment, it is not the intention to include John Heydler's 10-man suggestion in this classification. The National League leader makes quite a study of the game and has done many good things, but from other sources a lot of strange plans evolve. This writer, nevertheless, is opposed to his latest suggestion.

FANS INDIFFERENT

At the present time the fans are reading about the Yankee decision to number the players. This already has been tried in the National League and nobody seemed to take note of it. It might be a good idea for the senior circuit to frown upon the plan inasmuch as the league already is "branded" for copying the A. L. stunt of giving a valuable player prize each season. This has proved very unpopular in many quarters.

The other seven counts, however, can stand as written. Probably there are more, but that's enough for one visit.

Chillysauce

Said Owner Block
To Pilot Speaker:
"These holdouts make
The bank roll weaker."
"Is that the truth,
Or paper talk,"
Said Pilot Speaker
To Owner Block.

Quite a few of the Newark Stars are reported balking as the training season looms in the offing.

The epidemic is not confined to the major leagues. Newark, however is largely composed of big-league runovers, who apparently feel they are still in the big tent when they can slip into New York in a few minutes.

Every time a magnate opens an envelope holding an unsigned contract he feels like a gent who has just received a comic valentine. The time is almost ripe for valentines, too.

LOCALS MEET SPARTA CLUB TOMORROW

By TOM BIRKS.

When the Cleveland Sparta soccer team visits Pittsburgh tomorrow to meet the Pittsburgh Soccer Club in the third round of the National amateur cup at the Westinghouse High Stadium, it will be the fourth club of the Cleveland League to have visited the Steel City in the last seven years.

Because Pittsburgh is not permitted to play Sunday football, Ohio clubs have steadfastly refused to travel to this district for Saturday games. However, since Western Pennsylvania has become more popular with the governing body, Pittsburgh has had a better chance of forcing the Ohio teams to travel here when drawn.

The Akron Goodyears was the last Ohio club to appear here, this team defeating Dunlevy in the qualifying round of the National open. Two years ago the Cleveland Magyars had to travel to Pittsburgh to meet Heidelberg after the Green and Gold had held the Magyars to a tie score in the Forest City. The Magyars lost that game, 7 goals to 1.

A long time had elapsed before that. The Cleveland White Autos came to Pittsburgh, or rather to the New Eagles' grounds to meet Arden in 1921. A wonderful crowd watched that game, and the visitors departed with around $1,000. But usually Pittsburgh teams in the past have had to travel to Cleveland or any other state that found itself in the draw with it. Since this city has proved it can also pay traveling expenses, even for a Saturday game, National soccer men are making the teams travel. In the Sparta club fans will see one of the classiest outfits that has left the Buckeye State. Advices state Pittsburgh will have to show lots of goal getting ability to stay in the tourney.

The Sparta club is expected to reach Pittsburgh this evenin. The game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

P. G. A. Makes Final Ryder Selection

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The executive committee of the Professional Golf Association of America has announced the final selection of the 10 players who will defend the Ryder International Golf Cup at Leeds, England, next April 26 and 27.

The players are: Capt. Walter Hagen, Leo Deigel, Ed Dudley, Al Espinosa, Johnny Farrell, John Golden, Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Joe Turnesa and Al Watrous.

No alternates were designated, the committee leaving the captain the right to place his players as he deems advisable at the time of play.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn, a member of the team last year, was left off this year despite the fact he has been playing the lowest and most consistent golf of any of the selected players all winter. It was said he committed a social error abroad last year. His top average for 20 rounds this winter is 71.2 with a low score of 66, while Hagen has averaged only 71.8 for 14 rounds, with a low card of 68.

GRUBER DINNER RECALLS AFFAIR OF LONG AGO

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

WHEN John H. Gruber, veteran local sports scribe and official scorer at Forbes Field, is honored with a testimonial banquet under the auspices of the Pittsburgh chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America in the William Penn Hotel on the night of February 14, it will be the first time a local sports writer has been thus signally honored, but it will not be the first time that the profession has been dined as a group, take it from James (Red) Mason, veteran boxing manager, who recalls a dinner given by W. W. Kerr, owner of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, to the sports writers at Newell's Hotel more than 30 years ago.

Gruber was one of the honor guests that night, and others included John D. Pringle, of the old Dispatch; Steve Hornett, of the Times; Pat Egan, of the Gazette; Frank McQuiston, of the Gazette, and Clarence Bixby, of the Dispatch. All of these since have passed away with the exception of Gruber. Dr. Albert Cratty, of the old Chronicle-Telegraph, now known as Jim Jab, the boxing writer, is another survivor. Mason, then employed at Newell's, in Fifth avenue, at that time the sporting headquarters of the city, but now only a memory, was in charge of arrangements. He will be among those present when the Gruber testimonial is held.

FROM Lou Brown, of New York, former partner of Jimmy Bronson in the management of boxers, many of them from Pittsburgh, comes a letter of praise for Herman Folins, the Ambridge boxer, who has been boxing under his management since he turned professional in New York some months ago.

Folins has been boxing on an average of once a week except for a brief period during which he was indisposed and he has been a great crowd-pleaser and a consistent winner. Last Saturday night he defeated Jack Budko, a favorite at the Ridgewood Sporting Club in Brooklyn, and last night he boxed on the same card with Pete Zivic in Jersey City.

Brown wants to bring Folins to Pittsburgh to show before his home folks. He positively raves over the kid, and, when a veteran like Brown does that, it stands to reason that his protege is no ordinary fighter. I'd like to get a peek at Herman in action.

Promoter Francis Flynn, of the Moose Temple, believes he is presenting to the local fans in his main bout tonight the greatest "club fighter" of the times in Western Pennsylvania in the person of Battling Gizzy, of Donora, who meets U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington. It is a return battle, Gizzy having won a decision over the more seasoned Carpentier at Washington, Pa., a little more than a month ago. The bout will mark Gizzy's Pittsburgh debut. He has done virtually all of his fighting at Washington, Pa., Johnstown, McKeesport and Duquesne, and has lost only one decision. He is the district sensation of the current season. In his first few bouts he earned the reputation of being another Harry Greb for action and he has lived up to his early promise.

LEAVE it to Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion. Joe Choynski, who knocked him out in three rounds when Li'l Artha was 20 years old, was the hardest hitter that ever lived at any weight. Joe, who now makes his home in Chicago, where he referees many of the more important fights, lived here for a number of years and instructed boxing classes at the P. A. A.

Johnson is visiting in New York these days and during a recent fest with Tad, the veteran cartoonist and sports writer, he made this observation anent the Jewish star, who, although comparatively light, met all of the leading heavies of his time, including Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Sharkey and Jim Jeffries. If memory does not play me false, Jeffries also said Choynski hit him the hardest punch of his career.

Johnson rates Joe Walcott, the 5-foot 1-inch demon, the greatest fighter that ever lived. Walcott knocked out Choynski a year before Choynski knocked out Johnson.

"Walcott usually weighed less than 140 pounds," Johnson said. "One week he'd fight as a welterweight, the next as a middleweight and then he'd flatten some heavyweight. He did 131½ pounds for Kid Lavigne and then fought Oscar Gardner at 175 pounds. He was a wonder."

IN Johnson's opinion, Jim Coffroth, who was at the height of his fame in the days of 20-round bouts in California and since then has become a power in horse-racing with his Tia Juana track, was a greater promoter than the late Tex Rickard for the reason that he always gambled with his own money and put on great shows, while Tex almost invariably had an angel or a syndicate behind him. And Coffroth also had all of Tex's up-to-date methods of handling crowds to make certain that everybody got the seat his ticket called for and ran off shows with neatness and dispatch. Li'l Artha is inclined to believe that Coffroth would have been even more successful as the czar of boxing in New York that Rickard turned out to be.

SCOTT VICTORY "FIASCO"

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Award of the decision on a foul to Phil Scott, of England, last night in his bout with Ted Sandwina, Germany, aroused considerable dissatisfaction today.

The decision carried with it the heavyweight championship of Europe. Several of the ringside reporters called the award a fiasco, and some regret is expressed that the referee, Norman Clarke, did not allow the bout to go on, since, it is said, Scott's superiority was manifest and he would have won anyway.

The referee is quoted as saying Sandwina struck Scott in the groin, but Sandwina emphatically denies he fouled Scott in any manner. Scott, despite the pain of the alleged low blow, rose to his feet after it was struck and apparently wanted to continue the fight.

There was much booing of the decision, but part of this may have been due to resentment at the bout's lasting only five of the scheduled 15 rounds.

Ban on Betting Fails to Stop Florida Races

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Post time was set as usual at the Hialeah track today and officials of the Miami Jockey Club announced racing would go forward in spite of a strict ban on gambling established by Sheric M. P. Lehman.

After much speculation regarding the enforcement of the state laws against betting, the thoroughbreds were paraded past the judges without the accompanying wagerng in the paddock.

Sheriff Lehman said no gambling had been noticed and that his deputies would be in daily attendance at the track to watch for possible violations.

The sheriff's enforcement edict followed a telegram from Gov. Doyle Carleton in which the executive stated he was relying on local authorities to see that the state laws were observed.

old, won over a good field. A driver known as "Indian Taylor," and who was then about 55 years old, held the reins over Cheek's horse that day.

When called to the judges' stand, Cheek indignantly refused the aid of Judge Joseph McGraw, who offered to assist him to climb the steep steps. For many years during the latter part of his life, Cheek made his headquarters in Eastern Ohio.

Jack Adams.

THE splendid record that the Detroit hockey club is making in its bid for a place in the National League post-season play-offs is all the more remarkable when it is considered that Manager Jack Adams is doing the trick with what may be termed a brand-new team made up largely of youthful material. Adams certainly has done a record-breaking job of housecleaning in Detroit. Not a solitary player who was with the Cougars when Adams was made manager for the 1927-28 season is to be found on the roster at present. Jack has replaced them all with new men. Hockey veterans laughed at Adams' prediction that the young players he was adding to his forces would be among the leaders this season, but the latest official averages show that Dolly Dolson ranks second among the goal-keepers and that Herbie Lewis and Bobby Connors are right up among the front-runners in goal scoring. The three have better records than any like number of first-year players on any other team in the league.

MOUNTAINEERS TOP D. & E. BY 44-30

By JESS CARVER
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Feb. 1.—The genial Mountaineer folk of this place are admiring with proud satisfaction the glittering winning streak of Coach Francis X. Stadsvold's University of West Virginia basketeers, which has reached the sizeable figure of seven. This winning rampage and their new field house are two of the most treasured possessions of the folks down here.

The Mountaineers added Cam Henderson's Scarlet Hurricane of Davis-Elkins College to the list of victims here last night. There are several reasons which might be offered in explaining how the Senators took a 44-30 lacing; the principal one would be to say that they exhibited a miserable defense.

PETERS' LOSS HURTS

In justice to Henderson's charges it must be said that they went fairly well until their star center, Peters, suffered a tummy ache in the first half and departed from the field of action. When Pete went out the score was 9-8. When the half ended, 12 minutes later, it was 21-8. So you can figure for yourself Peter's value to D. & E.

Little Sleepy Glenn was on another buster last night, throwing in seven hoops and a foul for 15 points. Big Swede Hagberg, who prowls about the floor much in the manner of a gaunt, hungry bear, was two points behind Little Sleepy with 13. Truehart Taylor, who captained the locals last year, was third with 11.

Davis-Elkins, despite the defeat, showed promise of developing into a dangerous contender, and on more than one occasion displayed fine form on the offense, employing a deceptive hook pass and foul line pivot play that at least looked good.

A crowd of about 3,500 swarmed into the new field house, which, by the way, is an admirable piece of work, to witness the contest. D. & E. took the Mountaineers three times last season. The lineup:

West Virginia—44.		Davis-Elkins—30.
Glenn (A. C.)	F.	Warren
Lepera	F.	Brown
Hagberg	C.	Peters
Ratcliffe	G.	(C.) Kochenderfer
Piaster	G.	Markowitz

Score by periods:

West Virginia	21	23—44
D. & E.	8	22—30

Substitutions: West Virginia — Taylor, Black, Fox, Bartrug. Davis-Elkins—Donahue, Fairbanks, Cook. Field goals: West Virginia—Glenn 7, Lepera, Hagberg 5, Piaster, Taylor 5. Davis-Elkins—Warren 3, Brown 2, Peters 3, Kochenderfer 2, Markowitz. Fouls: West Virginia—Glenn, 1 out of 5; Hagberg, 3 out of 4; Piaster, 0 out of 1; Taylor, 1 out of 2; Black, 0 out of 1; Fox, 0 out of 1; Bartrug, 1 out of 2. Davis-Elkins—Warren, 0 out of 1; Brown, 3 out of 3; Peters, 4 out of 7; Donahue, 1 out of 2; Fairbanks, 0 out of 1. Team fouls—West Virginia, 6 out of 16; Davis-Elkins, 8 out of 14. Leading scorer — Glenn, West Virginia, 15 points. Time of periods—20 minutes. Out of game on personal fouls—Markowitz, Davis-Elkins. Referee Dan Brickley.

PITT GOES EAST

Pitt's Golden Panthers will set sail this afternoon for Philadelphia, where on the morrow, as the poets have it, the Cats tangle with Temple University's quintet. The easterners have won 11 out of a dozen contests played this year.

The contest will be played in the afternoon so that the Panthers will be able to attend the annual dinner of the Veteran Sportsmen's Association of Philadelphia. Pitt was invited to represent collegiate basketball as the 1928 champions.

Capt. Howard Harpster and Ted Rosenzweig, of the 1928 Carnegie Tech football team also will attend tomorrow's fete as honor guests. They will be accompanied Clarence (Buddy) Overend, graduate manager of athletics, and Judge Walter P. Steffen, advisory coach, will go from Chicago direct to Philadelphia for the affair. Dr. Thomas S. Baker, Carnegie Tech president, was scheduled to attend the dinner, but illness forced him to alter his plans.

PICKARD VAULTS TONIGHT

Vic Pickard, Pitt pole vaulter who placed second in a meet at Newark last night, will compete in the Boston A. A. invitation meet at Boston tonight. Pickard cleared 13 feet, 4 inches in the Newark competition, but was topped by Frederick Sturdy, of Yale, who set a mark of 13 feet, 7 inches.

Waynesburg College meets Grove City at Grove City tonight. The West Virginia Wesleyan passers play Glenville Normal at Buckhannon.

No More Three-Year Contracts for Ruth

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—There will be no more three-year contracts for Babe Ruth when his present one expires this fall, accord to President Jacob Ruppert, of the Yankees. The fact that father time is slowly but surely taking his toll is the main reason for the decision to offer the Babe nothing more than a one-year contract in the future.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Ignores Loan Bulge.

The market made further substantial progress today, ignoring the bulge of $116,000,000 in brokers' loans and moving higher under the influence of strong buying in the rails and leading industrials. Steel common was turned over in large volume on an upturn which carried it to the highest since the dividend meeting Tuesday. Canadian Pacific was prominent in the rail section, with New York Central, both reaching new record prices as increasing buying power steadily diminished the supply of available stock. Coppers added a little to yesterday's gains on expectation of another raise in metal prices. The oils showed marked improvement, although the Street was at a loss to account for the buying. The oil trade situation is bad, according to surface indications, and the traders had no explanation for the movement other than that informed interests were picking up stocks in anticipation of developments of which the public has as yet had no intimation. Standard of Indiana on the curb bulged up toward 100 again, presumably on competitive buying in the proxy war now raging between the Rockefeller interests and those of Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board. Continental Oil, one of the Standard group, also on the curb, showed conspicuous strength, and several of the oils on the big board moved up spiritedly. Aside from the influence of the easing money market, observers were inclined to attribute current market strength to the fact that earnings statements for 1928 are beginning to make their appearance and most of the industrial exhibits show marked improvement in profits, as compared with the previous year. As the current year's outlook is much better than appeared probable for 1928 at this time a year ago, it is not at all unlikely that 1929 may roll up a record of corporate profits well above the heretofore record year 1926. The political aspects are favorble of big business and the merger and expansion plans for this year would indicate that the best informed authorities are satisfied that conditions will be propitious for the carrying out of their programs.

Switching to Rails.

Statements are made in some circles that considerable switching from industrials to rails has been in progress by important traders recently on the theory that when the issues now popular with buyers meet increased profit taking the carriers are likely to be taken in hand. Conditions in the railroad field are satisfactory at the moment, which encourages buying advices from many houses now that this group has started an upward movement.

Time Money Easier.

For the first time in several months the time money market actually is showing some signs of easing. This is viewed as highly encouraging by those who have been insisting that the flurry which has developed in call money in connection with month-end obligations will be of only a temporary nature. Predictions are heard that call and time rates are likely to work lower beginning next week.

Reeser on Oil Situation.

E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, now in California, states in private wire advices: "The Santa Fe Springs field will reach a peak of not more than 275,000 barrels daily late in February and decline after that. Present production of the Ellwood pool in Santa Barbara County is 23,000 barrels. Opinion is quite general that there will not be any cut in California light crude unless additional cut is made in Mid-Continent grades."

The minority movement is headed by E. M. Love, W. W. Goldsborough and Harrison Nesbit. Tidal Osage has been more or less a mystery stock for some time. It has been paying 50 cents dividends quarterly since September, 1927, and on November 1, last year, paid a special dividend of $2.50 a share, yet the open market price of the stock did not get above $22 a share during all of 1928, and in the past several weeks has been dropping conspicuously, reaching a recent low of around $11. Capital consists of $4,791,640 of common voting stock, par $10, and $1,521,550 of non voting common, par $10, out of an authorized issue of $5,000,000 of voting stock and $5,000,000 non voting. Earnings for 1928 have not been issued. The report for 1927 showed surplus for that year of $1,762,385 after payment of $635,877 dividends and deduction of a surplus adjustment of $126,697. Total surplus at the end of 1927 was $6,675,604. The company is controlled by Tide Water Oil Company, which in turn is controlled by the Tide Water Associated Oil Company. Tidal Osage owns leases on about 258,000 acres located in Oklahoma, Texas, West Virginia, Kansas, Louisiana and Arkansas. Daily average oil production is 7,000 barrels. The company has 429 oil wells and 22 gas wells.

Denver and Rio Grande.

The Denver and Rio Grande Western Railroad filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission a brief in support of its effort to obtain trackage rights to operate over the Denver and Salt Lake Western Railroad in connection with the use of Moffat Tunnel in Colorado. The Salt Lake Line has applied to the commission for authority to build an extension from Dotsero to Orestod, which would connect with the Rio Grande, and a tentative report by commission agents recommended that the Rio Grande be given trackage rights over the Salt Lake System as an exchange for the construction rights. The Salt Lake Company resisted the extension of trackage rights to the Rio Grande.

O'FALLON CASE AFFECTS EVERY U.S. RAILROAD

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE legal battle, which has been called "the greatest lawsuit in history," does not have a billion dollar corporation as one of the participants, but it will eventually have an effect on about $22,900,000,000 worth of property. Most of the people in the United States would never have heard of the plaintiff were it not for the fact the case will have a bearing on the valuation of every foot of railroad track in the United States.

The St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad has a main line nine miles long. It has 12 miles of yards and siding. The company claims to own property worth $1,350,000. The Interstate Commerce Commission decided the road was worth $978,000. The final decision of the Supreme Court, unless that body dodges the issue, will add to or extract from the worth of every railroad from the great Pennsylvania system to the most bankrupt streak of rust.

In 1913 the Interstate Commerce Commission was authorized by the Valuation Act sponsored by the late Senator LaFollette to determine the worth of all railroads of the United States on the basis of the original cost to date, the cost of reproduction, and the cost of reproduction less depreciation.

UNDER the Transportation Act of 1920, the commission was required to recapture from the railroads one-half of the earnings in excess of 6 per cent on the value of the railroad property. The act did not specify the basis on which the value of the railroads was to be taken. As every one knows, prices today and prices 20 years ago are very different. The railroads were not built in a minute. Part of the money used was spent at pre-war prices and part at levels prevailing in recent years. A railroad this year is not the same as a railroad last year. Some of the equipment used last year has been discarded and replaced by new materials. Even to find the value of a railroad on any definite basis is likely to be a guessing proposition.

The Interstate Commerce Commission some time ago attempted to collect $226,000 of excess earnings from the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad. In calculating the excess the railroad believed that the cost of reproduction to date should be used. But the commission took the average reproduction costs up to the year 1914. To this figure it added the cost of improvements made since that time. It then deducted an amount for depreciation. Thus it deprived the owners of the railroad of the benefit of the advances in prices of most types of property since that time. The commission was divided 6 to 4 in making its decision.

SINCE railroad rates, in theory at least, are supposed to be based on property valuation, the commission takes the position that it would not be wise to value railroads at current reproduction costs since this value would fluctuate from year to year and it would be disturbing to commerce to have a similar unstability in railroad rates.

Although the railroads are supposed to be entitled to a fair return on their valuation of 5¾ per cent, the actual return has never reached this figure and the commission has shown no disposition to make rates which would give the railroads such earnings. The roads which actually have earned over 6 per cent have been few in number. Since 1922 the return of all railroads on the tentative value set by the commission has ranged from 3.61 per cent to 4.74 per cent.

More than half of the 693 railroads which have been valued by the commission have filed counter claims based on the fact that the valuations were taken on 1914 prices while their property today is worth much more.

A PECULIAR angle to the railroad valuation case is the fact that the carriers have received far less satisfactory treatment than the public utilities. Most court decisions and commission rulings on utilities have stated that the value must be determined as of the time the inquiry is made and must give effective weight to the present cost of reproduction. In addition to this the utilities have usually been allowed to earn from 7 to 8 per cent.

Although the Interstate Commerce Commission undoubtedly will not increase freight rates even if it is required to value the carriers at present reproduction costs, the case will have an important bearing on the future of railroad investments. By increasing their operating efficiency the railroads have been slowly raising their earnings. The progress for the past 10 years has been upward in spite of growing motor competition. Unless these newcomers in the transportation field become too powerful or freight rates are whittled down too rapidly, the number of roads in the recapture class will grow year by year. Then the effect of the O'Fallon decision will be felt.

STOCK MARKET RISE TURNS VIOLENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Operations for the advance assumed violent proportions in the rails and a number of industrials and specialties on the stock market today, regardless of the increase of $116,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans announced last night.

Traders were inclined to ascribe a large part of the increase in loans to the underwriting of several large stock and bond offerings this week, three of which reached nearly $100,000,000. The fact that the Federal Reserve statement revealed no earmarkings of gold or other operations to offset the recent takings of the yellow metal in London was interpreted bullishly.

Call money again renewed at 7 per cent, and was expected to be easier next week with the return of the February 1 payment checks to the banks. The tone of time money was easier at yesterday's reduced rates. Some profit taking came into the market around midday, but was readily absorbed, causing merely a slackening in the pace of trading.

The day's news included approval of the proposed two-for-one stock splitup by Kennecott shareholders, gains of about $5,000,000 each in the sales of Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck in January, as compared to January, 1928, and the formation of a new $35,000,000 public utility holding company.

The bullish flare in the rails was intensified by various rumors regarding consolidation programs. It was reported that the Taplin interests were said to be preparing to seek permission to acquire the Western Maryland and other lines, forming a fifth major system in the East.

Chesapeake and Ohio, Canadian Pacific and Pere Marquette jumped about 7 points each, while Jersey Central, New York Central, Pittsburgh and West Virginia, Baltimore and Ohio, Illinois Central and New Haven mounted 3 to 5 points, several to record prices.

Allied Chemical, Western Union, Wright Aero, W. T. Grant and National Bellas Hess shot up 9 to 12 points. DuPont (new) shot up more than 7 points after absorbing early profit taking.

Gardner Motors lost 2 points on a statement from the president that he considered the stock too high. American Power and Light lost 2½ points.

Wide fluctuations in some of the volatile issues—Radio shooting up nearly 28 points to 398—evidently had a damaging effect on sentiment as prices began to slip fast in spots in the final hour. Union Carbide, Electric Autolite, Chrysler and General Electric fell 4 to 6 points under the preceding close. A bullish demonstration, however, was started in the rails, under leadership of Atlantic Coast Line and New Haven, the latter rising above 96. Closing was irregular. Sales approximated 4,800,000 shares.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Trading was active and prices buoyant on the Curb Market today, with aviation, utility and specialty issues advancing into new territory. The wide increase in brokers' loans apparently was taken philosophically, with traders inclined less to heed bank warnings that credit is expanding too rapidly than the theory of brokers that the increase reflects the enormous growth of trading and business.

Aviation of America, Boeing, Trans-America and Niles Bement Pond were prominent in the advance of airplane issues, gains running 3 points or more. Utility issue were inclined to yield to profit-taking after showing early strength, especially United Gas Improvement. Electric Bond and Share advanced 3 points, American Light and Traction 7 and American Gas and Electric 5.

Oils improved, with Standard of Indiana gaining 4 points and International and Continental about 2 each. Mines were strong. Phelps Dodge soared 25 points to 260 on buying inspired by reports of highly favorable earnings and that the company will enter the manufacturing field. St. Anthony Gold responded to advices a fifth gold ore vein has been found on the Sturgeon Bay, Ontario, property.

American Colortype extended its recent gains on expectation of early increased dividend action by the directors. Bliss, Deere, Checker Cab, U. S. Frieght and numerous other industrials made substantial gains. Fox Theaters and Auburn Motor again were weak.

STANDARD SANITARY UP IN STRONG MARKET HERE

Industrial issues were strong on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with several issues selling up to new high ground for the movement and few making new highs for all time.

Standard Sanitary was among the group making new record tops for all time, the stock moving up in the forenoon dealings in response to the announcement of the merger terms with the American Radiator Company. Detailed announcement will be found in another column of today's Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. While some traders felt the terms contained nothing of special bullish import to Standard there was another element which expressed the opinion that some favorable action may be taken later, after the properties are consolidated and working improvements put into effect.

Standard Steel Spring was among the favorites in the up side again today and went into new high ground since the shares were admitted to the official list. The stock is well liked in local trading circles and there has been very little selling for profit on the current upturn. Pittsburgh Screw and Bolt was steady but showed no disposition to break out of its current trading range in the early market.

Securities in the unlisted section of the market were also strong. Aluminum Goods Manufacturing was in urgent demand and scored a two point gain on a few traders just after the opening. Western Public Service, the newly formed Crawford-Ohio Oil-Prairie Oil, Gas Company, struggled ahead, but did not show any signs of wanting to run away on the advance. Witherow Steel continued strong and was handled at the best price of the movement.

National Fireproofing common and preferred both continued the upward movement began a few days ago when the company declared an extra dividend of 72½ cents a share on the senior issue. Blaw Knox was rather sluggish, although the stock did not lose ground to any appreciable extent. Plymouth Oil sold around the low of the current movement, with only a comparatively few shares changing hands.

BUGS BAER Says

A WOMAN NEEDS TWO FIGURES.

WE are glad to hear that the ladies are going in for curves and beefsteaks.

Word comes from Paris that hips, chins and dimples will be stylish again no matter where located.

Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When a lady starts in to get thin she will back up against a buzz saw and call it a diet.

Molly O'Day had 20 pounds of fat whittled off her chassis because her movie contract stipulated that Molly was to remain a flapper.

Peaches Browning commanded the surgeons to chisel the calves off her legs because she was putting on so much beef that she was knock-kneed way down at the ankles.

Now that the girls are to be plump again, Molly will probably rush to the doctors and demand her property back.

For the last three years the wife has been on a diet in an attempt to subsidize her girlish figure.

For breakfast she nibbled the outer epidermis of a salad.

For lunch, she munched the western suburbs of a chunk of toast.

Supper consisted of an under-stuffed olive under a sheltering twig of parsley.

The only person who lost weight was the writer.

It is all right to remain thin. But a woman is wrong when she thinks a canary bird's cage is a dining alcove.

The fashion tip from Paris arrived just in time to prevent the Consolidated Husbands of America from throwing themselves into traffic in the hope of getting run over by a lunch wagon.

It's a tough thing to go on another person's hunger strike.

Last night we had a sirloin for supper. It was thick, brown and welcome. We got so much grease on our chin that we were ready to swim the English Channel.

We were so hungry that a T-bone looked like the entire alphabet.

The next time you take your sweety to a restaurant be prepared to pick up a check.

The girls are eating again. They haven't forgotten how.

We have finally figured out this fashion business. Every woman needs two figures.

One for the dance floor. And the curly one for the beach.

Will Durant says he admires a philosopher who has the courage to run off with another man's wife, as Voltair did.

How about the courage of the other man's wife—who runs off with a philosopher?

"The function of philosophy," says Durant, "should be to co-ordinate knowledge into wisdom and to co-ordinate desire into character . . . the latter results in personality."

THE BROWN TOWHEE

This is the regular Friday Morning Hour, given over to the Protection of Birds, namely the Brown Towhee, often called the Anthony's Towhee. Mr. De Wilton, of the Parents-Teachers, is in charge of today's hour. Go ahead, Mr. De Wilton—

"Welcome Mrs. A. Towhee,
Come to take your bath, I see,
You and I are friends you see,
Mrs. Anthony Towhee."

Ahem—If you chance to live in Tower, Minnesota, as I do, your best friend is the Brown Towhee. The Mexicans call him viejita-vee-ya-hee-tah — which shows what they think of him. Recently I saw a Towhee crying, "Dee-dee-dee-dee!" he said. "Dee-dee-dee dee." Just then a Brown Towhee came along. He heard the "Dee-dee-dee-dee!" He turned up one eye as if to say, "Dee-dee-dee-dee!" And so it goes. The number of eggs vary from three to five.

Wealth and Prohibition Correspondents Answered

Ordinarily no attention is paid to anonymous communications, but there is occasionally one which calls for reply. The writer makes this impossible usually through having signed no name or address. Two coming to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph present opportunity to give facts of general interest, hence they are halted on their way to the waste basket to become topics for discussion.

First, we have a pessimistic complaint from a person who signs himself ''American.'' He seems to think the country is going to the dogs because of the ''concentration'' of wealth and the displacement of labor by machinery.

''The great wealth of this country is now concentrating into the hands of the very few,'' he says, intimating this is to the detriment of the country as a whole.

To dispute reasonably we must have terms. So we are going to avoid confusion as much as possible by dividing wealth into the wealth of dollars and the wealth of things.

Dollars first. In 1900 there were 1,002 savings banks in this country having 6,107,083 depositors owning $2,449,547,-85. In 1927 there were 1,461 savings banks in which the 4,814,271 depositors had $9,738,902,000.

In 1900 there were a total of 3,571 national banks, the usual depositories of ''capital,'' as well as millions of smaller depositors, having deposits of $2,458,092,758. In 1927 the 796 national banks had deposits of $21,775,123,000.

Let ''American'' use his noodle and locate the ''concentration'' of the wealth of dollars, the total of which, in the final analysis, are in constant use for the benefit of all instead of any individual.

Now for the wealth of things. The facts must be brief, but ''American'' investigates he will find them typical. Formerly the Pennsylvania Railroad was owned by a few thousand people. In 1927 the number was 141,000. By April, 1928, the number of stockholders had increased to 142,602. In June, 1928, the company offered a stock issue of $17,500,000 to employes at $50 per share, limit, 10 shares. More than 100,000 employes, many of them already stockholders, oversubscribed this issue.

The United States Steel Corporation is another organization with widely diffused ownership. In addition to the large amount of steel stock held by the public there were 146,381 common and 662,353 preferred shares in the hands of 46,048 employes registered as stockholders last summer. There were also 24,576 other employes, not registered as stockholders, making time payments on stock purchases.

The allusion to labor-saving machinery must be replied to general comment. Labor-saving machines quite often bring misfortune to many workers during the period of transition from one condition to another. For instance, power looms were instrumental in causing loss of employment to hand weavers the time they were put into use. But they now enable the workers of the world to have fabrics cheaply. The younger generation cannot recall seeing a ragged man or woman. Patched clothing was a common sight in the younger days of who are aged 50 years or upward.

In the long run labor-saving machinery is a boon to labor a whole, even though it may cause some suffering to the individual worker at first. Anything that takes some burden from the back of labor is a public blessing.

''Schoolgirl'' does not like our stand on the prohibition law. Sources of facts which were open to her and of which she failed to avail herself include records of arrests for drunkenness. Another source of facts of which we hope she never will avail herself are the ''parties,'' to which she would only have go to find out how impossible of enforcement is a law which great number of people wilfully ignore.

Smaller Money

But Not Less Money.

On July first your dollar bill will be much smaller, but worth as much as ever. The Government will save millions in paper and ink, and you will save room in your pocketbook.

On the one and two dollar bills the figures one and two are very big. Each denomination will carry the same engravings on all bills, the face of a statesman on one side, a building on the other—for instance, Lincoln and the Lincoln Memorial, etc. It will be a sensible, more convenient currency. May you have plenty of it.

Why the Noise—

Do White Men Need It?

A War Department order says that hereafter Gen. Pershing, when he appears officially in public, shall have a 19-gun salute, just as though he were a field marshal in a foreign army. Until now, the Army has only fired 17 guns for him. The change must be gratifying. Think of having a cannon fired 19 times at your mere appearance.

Why not make it 99 times or 999? Pershing is a fine general. There are little African potentates that have guns fired 500 times in their honor, and about nothing in particular.

We Do Progress

Ask the Fliers.

Flying is the most highly scientific of all modes of transportation, and science helps it.

The Weather Bureau is arranging to send by radio hourly forecasts, that may be picked up by planes in their flight, warning them when to come down.

The idea of a weather man in Washington some day talking to a million men in flying machines is interesting.

The Proposed Five-Cent Cigar

Tales That Are Told

A Clever Cook

A LADY was many weeks without a cook, and finally in despair she answered an advertisement in the local paper.

"Can you cook?" she asked the applicant on the latter's arrival.

"Yes, ma'am."

"Yes, ma'am," cried the cook. "I know all them furrin' dishes."

"Really!" exclaimed the lady, whose delight knew no bounds. "What can you do?"

Not Very Promising

"DO you know, Dora," murmured bashful Bertie to the girl whom he hoped to make his wife, "I had a most remarkable dream last night."

"Did you? What was it about?" asked the apple of his eye.

"Well," said Bertie, "I dreamt I entered your father's study and asked him point-blank if I could marry you."

"What happened then?"

"He asked me what prospects I had and whether I could support you as you ought to be supported."

"Yes, and what then?"

"Oh—er—I told him the truth, and —er—I woke up and found myself on the floor."

Execution

Then once more his eyes swept round the circle of anxious faces about him. He bowed his head for a second, and then his arms flashed down.

"Ta, rah, rer, rah!" and the band had begun a very popular melody.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THE tourists will be on their way to Europe in armies pretty soon now. This story is left over from last year's tourists, I reckon.

An American was being shown London, and the poor guy was pretending to be awful pleased, but he was getting lonesome for the sun. He'd been in London a month and clouds and fog was about all he'd seen.

So after they got back from their tour around town the English host says, "Well, how do you like London?"

"I think it's great," he says. "However, I kinda wonder that you don't build a few skyscrapers here."

"Oh," says the Englishman, "that's bloody good! Skyscrapers, indeed! My word! But it wouldn't do any good to make those Yankee contraptions here, my boy. Them is clouds of fog, and no amount of scraping is going to clean them off the sky!"

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

PEOPLE can't understand why Ellen goes around with that queer Wilson girl.

Ellen is so intelligent and refined and the Wilson girl is as common as they make 'em. Yes, I admit she's jolly and of course she adores Ellen and waits on her, hand 'n' foot, but still—

He would explain that the Wilson girl is an escape for Ellen—an escape from the different tests of a worthier friendship.

It is true that Ellen is intelligent and refined and she should take her place with intelligent and refined people.

BUT IT'S QUITE A JOB TO KEEP UP WITH INTELLIGENT AND REFINED PEOPLE.

It's hard to gain and harder to keep their interest and respect. Their flattery is rare.

AND ELLEN LOVES FLATTERY, DREADS CRITICISM AND HATES HARD WORK.

She is lazy, vain and cowardly, as many bright people are.

So, instead of trying to make the grade with people of her own quality, she chooses an inferior whose companionship presents no difficulties.

It makes Ellen feel superior to condescend to an inferior—that flatters her vanity.

It's easy to win that inferior's service and co-operation—that satisfies her laziness.

Many of us are like that—we have a sneaking preference for inferior associates because they make life easier for us.

We're apt to stick to old family friends whom we should long ago have outgrown, because we're too lazy and timid and vain to seek people of higher standards. Then we rationalize our act by calling it "loyalty."

Far be it from me to advise disloyalty to old friends, however limited their scope may be—

But when we allow old friendships to interfere with our growth—when we use them as a sop for our conceit, a refuge for our cowardice and a soft bed for our laziness, then it's time to check up the account.

MANY AN OLD FRIENDSHIP IS AS INSIDIOUS A VICE AS ALCOHOLISM OR THE DOPE HABIT.

Seek new and difficult friendships and contacts—

Seek contacts which force you to grow and expand—

Put yourself on the firing line where you must face criticism and exert yourself to make good—

And beware of relationships which allow you to "take things easy."

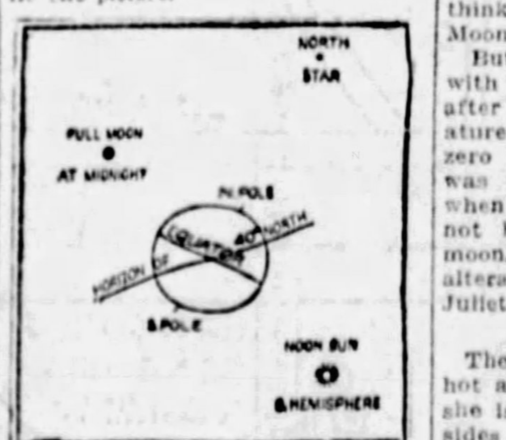
HOT AND COLD MOON

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE moon is full now. Look up at her beaming face and bless her. How she adds to the splendor of the nights, especially where the fields and hills are clad in the ermine of snow. The full moons of winter run high because they have to be opposite to the sun in the sky, and the sun in winter runs low. When the full moon is on the meridian at midnight, the noon sun is on the invisible half of the meridian under the horizon, directly beneath the North Pole star. See how it is in the picture.



Perhaps the moon looks cold to you, in accordance with the season and the appearance of the white landscapes she shines upon. But the latest information from the astronomers assures us that her face, which appears cheerful enough, some say smiling, is boiling in a temperature of 265 degrees Fahrenheit—hot enough to melt sulphur! That is the temperature in the center of her disk, exposed perpendicularly to the rays of the sun. Over a circle a thousand miles in radius (her whole diameter is only a little above 2,000 miles) a thin film of her surface is better than boiling water.

This fact and the astonishing ones that follow it have been ascertained by Edison Pettit and Seth B. Nicholson at the famous Mount Wilson Observatory. During a recent eclipse they selected a point on the moon where their magical electrical "thermo-couple" showed that her rocks lying in the sunshine had a temperature of 156 degrees. Then the shadow of the earth fell upon the moon, producing an eclipse of the sun there. During the eclipse the temperature on the moon dropped from 156 degrees above zero to 196 degrees below zero! What do you think of that for the home of the Moon Maiden?

But the moon warmed up again with equal rapidity. Half an hour after the eclipse ended the temperature had shot up from 196 below zero to 135 degrees above! Juliet was more right than she knew when she advised Romeo to "swear not by the moon, the inconstant moon." But it was only the moon's alterations of figure that awoke Juliet's distrust.

The reason why the moon grows hot and cold so quickly is because she is bare of atmosphere. On all sides the cold of open space touches her unshielded. The lack of atmosphere allows the heat to fly away again almost as fast as it arrives. Only about six per cent penetrates below the surface and even this is swiftly radiated away as soon as a shadow falls upon the moon. The skin of the little globe is burned like that of a hand held out in the sunshine on the ice-covered dome of Mont Blanc, but more than 90 per cent of the sun's radiation is immediately sent back into space without having time to penetrate. The moon is a two-faced hades of heat and of cold.

Bible Passages

"All Is Vanity"

(Ecclesiastes 3; 9-32)

WHAT profit hath he that worketh in that wherein he laboureth?

I have seen the travail, which God hath given to the sons of men to be exercised in it.

He hath made every thing beautiful in his time: also he hath set the world in their heart, so that no man can find out the work that God maketh from the beginning to the end.

I know that there is no good in them, but for a man to rejoice, and to do good in his life.

And also that every man should eat and drink, and enjoy the good of all his labour, it is the gift of God.

I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be for ever: nothing can be put to it, nor any thing taken from it: and God doeth it, that men should fear before him.

That which hath been is now; and that which is to be hath already been; and God requireth that which is past.

And moreover I saw under the sun the place of judgment, that wickedness was there; and the place of righteousness, that iniquity was there.

I said in mine heart, God shall judge the righteous and the wicked: for there is a time there for every purpose and for every work.

I said in mine heart concerning the estate of the sons of men, that God might manifest them, and that they might see that they themselves are beasts.

For that which befalleth the sons of men befalleth beasts; even one thing befalleth them: as the one dieth, so dieth the other; yea, they have all one breath; so that a man hath no preeminence above a beast: for all is vanity.

All go unto one place; all are of the dust, and all turn to dust again.

Who knoweth the spirit of man that goeth upward, and the spirit of the beast that goeth downward to the earth?

Wherefore I perceive that there is nothing better, than that a man should rejoice in his own works; for that is his portion: for who shall bring him to see what shall be after him?

Hope's Return

THIS earth is so fair that no dream could be fairer,
And we find of all charms, none more potent or rarer,
For when hope takes its leave all our gladness is fled;
And no man can recapture
Old ardor, old rapture
When the glamor of hope from his vision has sped.
But like glimpses of spring in the days, growing longer,
So I find, in this joy that, unnourished, grows stronger,
In this laughter, unbidden, which stirs me again,
A glimpse, growing clearer,
A whisper, drawn nearer,
Of hope with its promise of peace after pain.

The Stag at Bay

THE Rockefellers simply won't keep off the wires.

At the moment, the two John D's are planning a Place de l'Opera on Fifth avenue, offering Egypt a $10,000,000 museum, marshaling their cash reserves, and challenging the Stewart camp to a finish fight for Standard Oil of Indiana.

On March 7th the world will witness a championship bout between expediency and idealism.

The Rockefeller fortune is backing the principle that big business owes its first duty to representative government.

Col. Stewart is defending the theory that a corporation head's primary responsibility is toward his stockholders and their dividends.

Mr. Rockefeller holds that Col. Stewart's record in the oil scandal unfits him for his position. And Col. Stewart's adherents point to company earnings, jury verdicts and announce their intention to back him to the last share of procurable stock.

A battlefield of gold, on which Titans will hurl bank resources and trust funds—a war of Midases, which threatens to disrupt Wall Street alliances and break Broad Street line-ups that have held rank for a quarter-century.

A once incredible situation—a spectacle without precedent—the richest man on earth at financial bay, his power denied, his prestige defied, and his authority questioned in his own domain!

Please page Thomas W. Lawson, and also the late Baron Rothschild.

The sons of old Anselm tolerated no rebellions in their realm. Kings and chancellors did their bidding, and woe betide the nonconformist!

Spain's memory still smarts at the birching she received when Madrid "put on a high hat," and canceled a bond underwriting. With a piddling $9,000,000, the Rothschilds crossed the Pyrenees and gave the royal treasury such a hiding that national consols fell from 70 to 37—a mere bear cub spreading panic through European markets!

Nowadays, the prospect of clashing billions doesn't even give the stock ticker a heart skip.

And, don't you bet on the outcome.

PARIS, Feb. 1.—Gene Tunney telephoned today from the Hotel George V, and later with our wives met for tea at the Ritz. The champion and his bride had been on a shopping expedition in London and Paris and were hurrying back to their home near Venice.

They will not return to America until autumn, Tunney having just purchased an isolated villa in Italy for summer occupancy. Mrs. Tunney, the former Polly Lauder, fits the hackneyed phrase "beautiful and charming." She is a tall brunette of athletic build, and vibrant with girlish freshness.

They seem a couple deeply and tenderly in love and engagingly happy. He is definitely through with the ring—that appears certain. He told me he was grateful for what boxing had done in building up a strong body. He once had a semi-withered arm from neuritis. The same arm, incidentally, that won the championship.

He was equally grateful the ring had given him financial independence, but he has no further sentimental attachments for it. He dislikes crowds and the back-slapping hurrah. This was evidenced in the obscure table he sought in the tea room. He was totally oblivious everybody recognized him.

Fight fans will never understand Tunney. He still refers to Dempsey as Mr. Dempsey. This is no pose. He simply cannot speak the language of Fistiana and how he ever became mixed up in that rough and tumble world will always be a mystery to me, and I knew him long before he became champion.

He is extremely exercised over the invasion of his privacy by a sensational press, following his marriage. Especially is he bitter toward the tabloids. Mrs. Tunney revealed they intended to keep the engagement secret. A discharged servant, seeking vengeance, tipped off a newspaper. Then the hullabaloo. And self exilement.

Tunney was evasive about his future. It is said he wants to write and it is fairly certain he expects to spend the most of his time for the next few years abroad. I wish I might print Tunney's view of a certain gentleman high in politics in New York. It is exactly my own. And sizzles!

At tea—the boys at home should see me tea-ing in Paris—today one could not help noticing how few French women smoke in public. It seems confined solely to the grisette in the circular bars. In a crowd of several hundred, nearly all the American and English women were inhaling smoke to their rouged knees, but not a native woman smoked.

Paris is prize-fight mad. There are several fights weekly at various Circques, and all are packed. The rioting and flood of billingsgate characterizing Madison Square Garden affairs are missing. Gendarmes are everywhere, and rowdiness results in a Spanish walk to the exit—toot sweet. And the announcer, in full evening dress, was the image of Monsieur Joe Toplitzky, in Los Angeles.

The gravity of the famed gay Paree is symbolized to me in the deep-bosomed, brooding serenity of the Bois. Here Paris meditates. Now it is carpeted with falling leaves and the great and beautiful trees stand stark and naked, but always in its remotest depths will be found pensive strollers moving slowly, heads down and hands folded behind, lost in reverie. Save for the fall of mounted horse hoofs on the soft turf, there is an almost ominous silence. Sober thinking Paris loves the Bois as loose-living New York loves Broadway. Starry-eyed lovers in close embrace amble along every path. It is doubtless one of the most appealing spots in all the world. Paris has the glitter of sham, but the Bois has the majestic dullness of reality.

Beehives of activity hide behind the solemn gray of the cold stone buildings. Here clusters a mysterious Paris unknown to tourists. Today I taxied into a little court in rear of a warehouse building in rue Taitbout. There were a dozen or so cubicle shops, tiny bars and small pensions, mechanical music, dancing, singing and sidewalk chatter. Another world.

One of the sights these days is the electrical display on the department store Bon Marche—welcome to the nice free ad.—designed by the wizard who prettied up Eiffel Tower. It shows cavorting clowns blowing bubbles, and as they float away other clowns rush up and burst them with pop guns. It is so attractive I am already three days behind in my wine bibbing.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE your spells of depression increasing in number?

Do they remain with you longer each time?

Are you more depressed than the ordinary run of people, and why?

The troubles you have affect you seriously.

But others have troubles, sometimes far greater than yours.

You think about yours till they seem double what they actually are.

It is probably what you have added that frightens you.

You are losing your power to banish disturbing thoughts, because you allow them to crowd out worthwhile thoughts.

You have taught yourself to think that the future is dark and foreboding.

When bright pictures come to you, you won't allow yourself to dwell on the hopeful side.

You wonder how so many see the future in rosy hues, and you envy them.

Those who seem so carefree may have more serious difficulties than you.

Backbone is needed.

ISN'T IT SO?
